

Council Approves 11-Ward Plan

DONALD E. QUICK

By HUGH REYNOLDS

KINGSTON
The only question about Tuesday night's vote on reapportionment was whether Democratic unity would remain intact. It did, and by a straight 9-4 party vote, the city was reapportioned from the present 13 wards to 11.
Most of the serious debate had taken place at the first meeting on reapportionment last Monday night, a meeting where the Democrats established that they were solidly in support of the 11-ward plan submitted by the Reapportionment Committee, chaired by Alderman Donald E. Quick (D-Sixth Ward).
Quick "carried the ball" at that first meeting, fielding various charges and complaints from the Republicans. In fact, Quick was the only Democrat who defended the plan last week. That led minority leader Brian D. Smith (R-Third Ward) to observe last night, "I hope I hear some supporting testimony from other aldermen on the merits of the 11-ward plan. Alderman Quick did all the talking at the last meeting." Smith said that one of Quick's reasons for eliminating two aldermen—that it would save some $4,300 in aldermanic salaries—"was not a legitimate reason, considering we have a city budget of $6.6 million." Quick later retorted that salary saving had been an "afterthought" on his part.

Smith also questioned another Quick reason, that the city's population had dropped and that therefore the number of aldermen should drop. Smith noted the numerous apartment projects now in construction in the city that would, in his opinion, raise the population back to its 29,000 level of 1960. Quick answered that the city was mandated to reapportion on the 1970 census figures and that population increases after that could not be used to figure this particular plan. He said that those increases would be taken into account by the 1980 census.

The Republicans came to last night's meeting prepared to argue the merits of their proposed 13-ward plan drawn up by Alderman Titus B. Sims early in March. The Democrats were just as prepared to argue against it and in favor of their 11-ward plan, the crux of their argument being that the 11-ward plan allowed for less disruption of the populace.

As for not taking the floor last week, Alderman John E. Finch (D-Fifth Ward), for one, stated that Quick had "answered all the questions."
Quick, when he got his chance to speak, said, among other things, that the new map had been on display for a week and that "no one had come down to see it. Apparently they (the Republicans) weren't that interested in our plan," he said.

Majority Leader Peter J. Mancuso (D-12th Ward) observed that the word "gerrymandering" had not been used in any of the debate and said "justifiably so." "We have not pitted Republican against Republican," he said.
In justifying the reduction in aldermen, Mancuso noted that Middletown, with a population of 21,500, has eight aldermen as does Poughkeepsie with a population of 38,330 and that Newburgh, with a population of 27,171 has just four aldermen on its city council. Kingston's 1970 population was 25,544.
Sims, the last to vote, said, "I sincerely believe we should maintain the 13 wards, not necessarily my plan. I offered to meet and discuss my plan with Alderman Quick and his committee. I would have voted for a 13-ward plan, regardless of who presented it."
Mayor Francis R. Koenig is expected to hold a public hearing on the Council-approved reapportionment plan early next week. His signature will make it official.

CLARK AIR BASE, Philippines (UPI) — Ten prisoners of war from Laos whose detention threatened the Vietnam peace agreement and another 40 held by North Vietnam were released today — one day before the end of U.S. involvement in Vietnam.
The twin release left 67 Americans in North Vietnamese prisons for one more night. Their freedom flights scheduled for Thursday are to coincide with the final U.S. troop withdrawals from South Vietnam.
"We are very proud to be Americans—and back," said Air Force Col. Joseph Kittinger Jr., of Orlando, Fla., the senior officer aboard the flight of 40 men.
The 40 from the prisons of North Vietnam were captured between Dec. 18, 1971, and last July 1, 1972—eight of them during the controversial "protective reaction" raids on North Vietnam ordered by then Gen. John Lavelle, commander of the 7th Air Force in Saigon.

Nearly all appeared healthy except Marine Capt. William K. Angus, 27, Scottsdale, Ariz., who limped noticeably and had to be assisted from the plane and onto the waiting ambulance bus. His left leg appeared to be stiff.
The Viet Cong released its last 32 American prisoners Tuesday at Hanoi. The men—27 military men and five civilians—were undergoing processing at Clark Air Base and some were expected back in the United States by the weekend.
The release of the seven military men, two U.S. civilians and a Canadian from Laos today, came after a tense week of diplomatic sparring during which President Nixon warned North Vietnam U.S. troops would remain in South Vietnam as long as the 10 men stayed in their prison camps.
The senior ranking officer on the flight, Air Force Lt. Col. Walter Stischer, 42, of Austin, Tex., told a crowd of about 400 persons, "Our reception has been wonderful. On behalf of all of us, I would like to thank you and all the people of the United States of America for making our return possible."

Communist forces push to within 15 miles of Phnom Penh in fighting along Highway 1. Story on page 46.

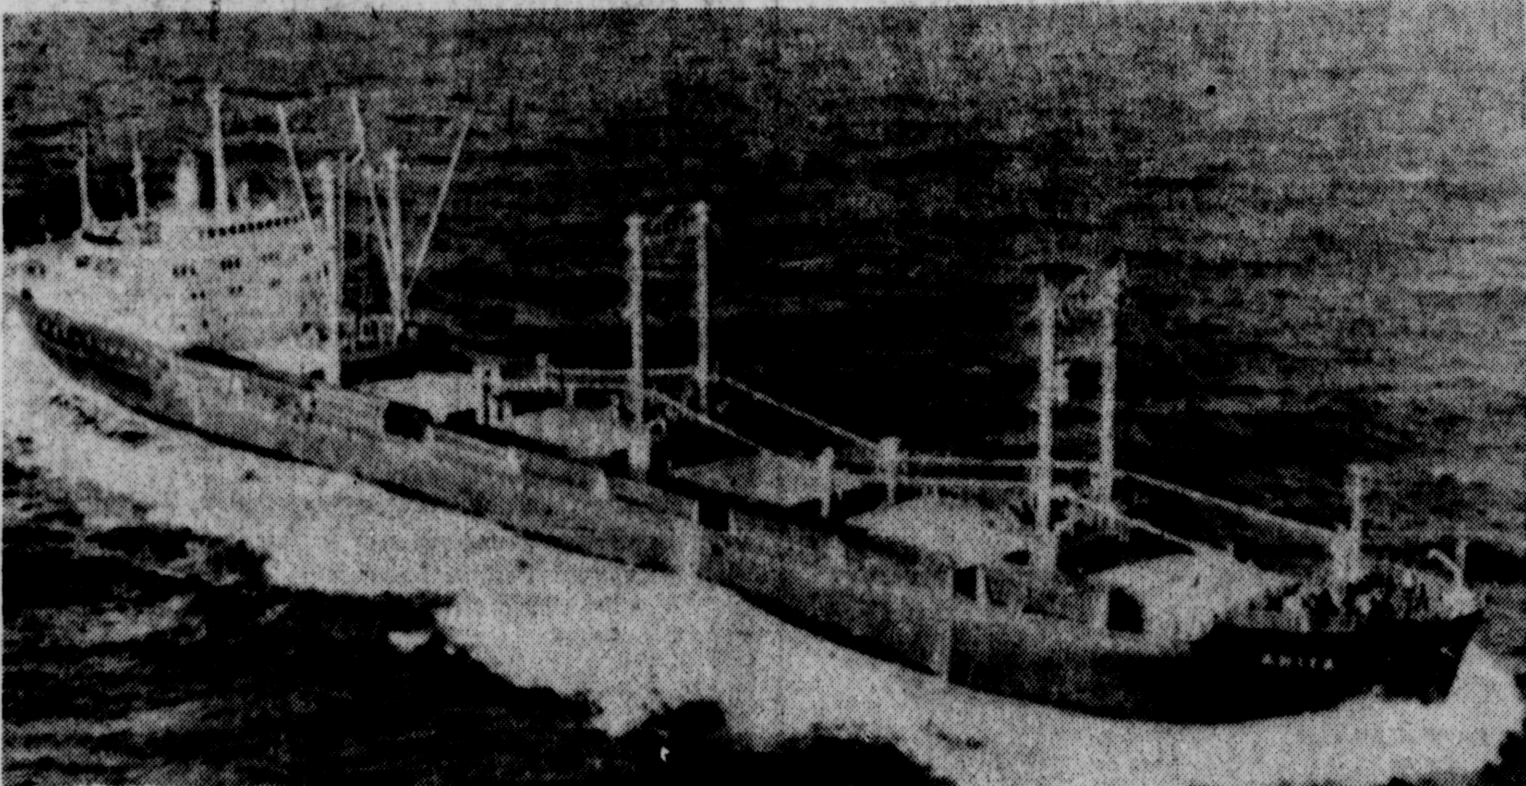

The 10 appeared healthy as they stepped off the plane, the military men saluting the American flag, the civilians including Canadian Lloyd Oppel placing hands over their hearts.
Air Force Capt. Charles Reiss, 31, Myrtle Beach, S.C., a prisoner only since Christmas Eve, flipped a thumbs-up sign and a large smile at the crowd.
Both Oppel, 21, of Courtney, B.C., and Samuel Mattix, 20, Centralia, Wash., were missionaries for Christian Mission in Many Lands. They were captured when the southern town of Kengkok, Laos, was overrun Oct. 28. Two women missionaries with them were killed by fire when they were tied to a stake in a house and the house was set ablaze.

The other American civilian was Ernest Brace, 41, born in Detroit, a CIA pilot who unwittingly landed his light aircraft in Northern Laos May 21, 1965.
The usual high-powered, 18-man U.S. team that arranges the POW turnovers with Vietnamese Communists was not sent to Hanoi for the release by the Pathet Lao. Both sides were content to play the ceremony in a low key.
For its part, the United States is unwilling to deal with the Pathet Lao on a government-to-government basis which would give the Communists status for their current negotiations with the Vietnamese government.
After a tense week that imperiled terms of the Vietnam peace agreement calling for U.S. troop withdrawal and prisoner release by today, North Vietnam agreed to act as the Pathet Lao's "agent" in arranging for freedom for the 10.

At least 35 of the last 107 prisoners to be freed by Hanoi are pilots and crewmen of B52 bombers and conventional jet fighters shot down during Nixon's Christmas bombing raids on Hanoi and Haiphong areas last Dec. 18-28.
Meanwhile, another 1,800 American servicemen headed home today, their departure time to coincide with the release of 49 U.S. POWs by Hanoi and the Pathet Lao in Laos.
The departure aboard gleaming "freedom birds" left 2,500 American servicemen in South Vietnam. They will leave for home Thursday, one day after the deadline set by the Paris truce agreement.
Nineteen transport planes, including for the first time giant Boeing 747 jets, began airlifting the U.S. servicemen out of South Vietnam two months to the day after the start of the Vietnam cease-fire.

SEA'S MYSTERY—The 20,000-ton Norwegian ship Anita was reported missing off the eastern U.S. coast in same area where her sister ship, the Norse Variant, sank last week. The Anita carried a crew of 32. Twenty-eight of the Norse Variant's 29 crew members died. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

The Sea's Mystery Deepens

NEW YORK (AP) — The Coast Guard has called off its week-old search for survivors of the sunken Norwegian freighter Norse Variant and for a second ship that may have gone down in the same vicinity.
A Coast Guard spokesman, Petty Officer Franklin Eskew, said early today the search had been canceled as of sundown Tuesday because of the "saturation coverage given the area without finding other survivors."
The only known survivor of the Norse Variant, Stein Gabrielsen, 23, an engineman, was flown to Oslo, Norway Tuesday night for a reunion with his family.
The Variant, a 541-foot, 12,946-ton bulk carrier was en route from Norfolk, Va., with a cargo of coal and a crew of 30 when she encountered a fierce storm and sank. Gabrielsen was rescued after drifting on a life raft for three days.

It was disclosed Tuesday that a similar Norwegian freighter, the M.S. Anita, had left Newport News, Va., for Bremen, Germany a few hours before the Variant and had not been heard from since.
"We are very troubled. The rumors seem to be true," said Digil Nygaard, the Norwegian consul general. "The ship seems to have met the same gale as the Norse Variant and we have not heard from it."
The U.S. Navy submarine-rescue vessel Kittiwake, part of the fleet of ships searching for the Variant, said it had picked up two life rafts and some life belts marked "Anita."
However, the Coast Guard said the finding did not necessarily mean the Anita had sunk. "The raft could have slid off the ship, the way things were bounding around out there," a spokesman said.

Early today the Coast Guard said the Anita, which had a crew of 27, including three women, was still being officially carried as "unreported."
The Coast Guard recalled eight Navy and Coast Guard ships and 20 Air Force, Navy and Coast Guard airplanes, which had been conducting a search along 8,000 square miles of ocean.
The Norse Variant is believed to have sunk about 135 miles southeast of Cape May, N.J.
Before flying to Oslo, Gabrielsen, who was rescued last Sunday after drifting for about 120 miles, told newsmen at Kennedy International Airport that he was thrown overboard and lost consciousness in the storm.

"When I came up, I was able to hold onto a float," he said through swollen lips. An interpreter repeated his remarks in English.
"I saw two other sailors on a float, who were far away, and the wind was blowing so hard, I could not get to them," he said.
The Coast Guard refused to acknowledge the Anita had sunk, even though rescue ships recovered a life raft bearing its name, because no distress signal was received from the Anita.
The Anita's owner, Erling Samuelson of Oslo, announced there had been no contact with the ship since it sailed from Norfolk, Va., on March 21.

'Fun and Games Are Over'...

PINE RIDGE, S.D. (UPI) — The government says the "fun and games are over" at Wounded Knee and promised to end the four-week armed occupation of this historic Oglala Sioux settlement "one way or the other."
Assistant Attorney General K. Frizzell Tuesday announced the government's attitude hours after a U.S. marshal was seriously wounded during the heaviest outburst of gunfire between federal marshals and militants since the Indians stormed the Wounded Knee Trading Post Feb. 27, taking arms, ammunition and 11 hostages. The hostages were released two days later.
"This is senseless," Frizzell said of the shooting. "It has got to stop—and it is going to stop."

one way or the other—by negotiation or otherwise... The fun and games are over."
The governments' get-tough policy came on the heels of a report by Dick Wilson, Oglala Sioux tribal chairman and target of the occupation by members of the American Indian Movement (AIM), that AIM leaders Russell Means and Dennis Banks had slipped out of Wounded Knee and taken refuge on the neighboring Sioux Rosebud Reservation.

Frizzell confirmed Wilson's statement at a news conference. "It is my belief that Russell Means and Dennis Banks left Wounded Knee two days ago," he said.
The Justice Department said three AIM members are believed to have replaced Banks and Means in the leadership position of those remaining in Wounded Knee. They are Pedro Bissonette, Clyde Bellecourt and Stan Holder.

Bellecourt is the brother of Vernon Bellecourt, AIM national co-director, along with Banks. Holder is security chief of the AIM forces in the hamlet.

The long, tense occupation could end today. Two meetings were scheduled. One on the perimeter of Wounded Knee between the government and members of AIM, and another in Rapid City between government officials, AIM attorneys, Bureau of Indian Affairs officials and possibly Wilson or his representative.

Brando and Oscar... No!

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Marlon Brando has turned down the Academy Award for best actor of 1972, sending an Indian girl to make the refusal because he thinks the film industry does not treat the American Indian properly.

Brando was selected for his portrayal of the gangland boss in "The Godfather," which was named best film of the year by the Motion Picture Academy in ceremonies Tuesday night at the Los Angeles Music Center.
Liza Minnelli, the nightclub singer of "Cabaret," was picked as best actress. The musical is set in German.
Sacheen Littlefeather said

Brando had sent her to "regretfully" refuse the award. The announcement was greeted by boos, then by scattered applause as she said the refusal was because of treatment of American Indians by the film industry and by television in movie reruns and because of recent happenings at Wounded Knee, S.D. Militant Indians have held the historic village for 29 days.
This was the second time in two years that an Oscar for best actor was turned down. George C. Scott said in advance in 1971 he would not accept if he won for his performance in "Patton." He won and the gold-statuette is still unclaimed.

Brando won an Academy Award in 1954 for "On the Waterfront," and appeared personally to accept the Oscar. He has been nominated six times for best actor.
Miss Littlefeather, who said she represented the Native Americans Affirmative Image Committee, said backstage that Brando "would have been here in person but thought he could be more helpful at Wounded Knee." She declined to answer any questions about whether Brando had actually left for the besieged Indian village.
"Cabaret" collected eight Oscars, including one for Joel

Grey as best supporting actor as the music hall's master of ceremonies.
Bob Fosse, "Cabaret" director, won the best director Oscar. It was his third major award in three days. On Sunday night he had won two Tonys—Broadway's equivalent of the Oscar—as director and choreographer of the musical "Pippin."
The record for Oscars is held by "Ben Hur," which won 11 in 1959.
"The Godfather" won three Oscars—for Brando, best film, and for best adapted screenplay. The film had been heavily favored to sweep the awards.

Five-Month Chase Ends

Mt. Tremper Insurance Executive Surrenders

HURLEY Arrested on three counts of grand larceny in the second degree and one count of grand larceny in the third degree, all felony charges, was F. William Sheehan, 54, formerly of Wittenberg Road.

Police had been conducting a nationwide search for Sheehan since October, when a warrant was issued for his arrest. He "disappeared" on Oct. 17, 1972. Sheehan has been travelling "extensively" throughout the United States and in Canada since that time, according to Senior BCI Investigator Michael Lisman.

"We tracked him across the country in every direction," Lisman told The Freeman today. "The investigation at times reached the point where we were one day in back of him," Lisman said.

According to Lisman, Sheehan first fled south, and during the five month search turned up in such places as Florida, Alabama, Mississippi and northern California. He was reportedly last in Canada before he returned to surrender himself.

Asked why Sheehan had given himself up after a five-month chase, Lisman suggested that he had tired of being on the run and felt he was in jeopardy. "I guess he was just out of gas," Lisman said.

Hurley State Police had been in touch with police agencies throughout the country while on Sheehan's trail.

Sheehan had operated the F. William Sheehan Insurance Agency for approximately four years, having previously been employed by the Veterans Administration for many years. He allegedly issued fraudulent insurance policies between Nov. 1971 and June, 1972. Sheehan allegedly pocketed premiums and did not file policies with home offices of the insurance companies he represented. Lisman estimated that Sheehan allegedly bilked his clients out of $50,000 to $100,000.

Arraigned Tuesday evening before Kingston Town Justice Robert Ferrigan, Sheehan waived a preliminary examination and was committed to Ulster County jail in lieu of $10,000 bail-pending grand jury action.

Sheehan had been indicted in November by the October Grand Jury on the four felony counts of grand larceny.

Murder Trial... Defense Rests

By JON POWERS

KINGSTON The defense rested its case Tuesday in the murder trial of 28-year-old Jack Duane Lewis after hearing testimony from a psychiatrist who said the defendant was a "pathological intoxicant" with an "explosive personality" who often suffered loss of memory after consuming alcohol.

But under cross-examination by District Attorney Francis J. Vogt, Dr. Necati M. Alp of the Hudson River State Hospital in Poughkeepsie conceded that it is "not unusual" for a defendant charged with murder to say he doesn't remember anything about the crime.

Lewis is accused of the murder of 17-year-old Colleen Thurin of Kingston in the Town of New Paltz last August. Trial testimony has revealed that Lewis was with the girl the night she was attacked and beaten.

Dr. Alp testified that he examined Lewis on Sept. 28, 1972, about a month after his arrest for murder. He said Lewis was "coherent" and "relevant" during the examination, but that the defendant could not remember what transpired after he left a New Paltz bar with Miss Thurin the night of Aug. 25.

Dr. Alp told the court that a person diagnosed as a "pathological intoxicant" often hears voices, misinterprets stimuli from other people in his environment and becomes argumentative, abusive and assaultive "to the degree that he could commit a crime."

Defense attorney Robert Ricken has entered a plea of not guilty by reason of insanity for his client, and throughout the trial has attempted to show that Lewis often lost control of his actions after drinking.

Dr. Alp stated that pathological intoxication is a psychotic state, but added that he also diagnosed Lewis as having an "aggressive personality," which is not considered a psychosis. Dr. Alp said that a person with an "aggressive personality" is aware of his actions. "If he remembered that he beat her and hurt her," said Dr. Alp, "that would indicate aggressive personality."

That particular testimony came under cross-examination by the district attorney, who is attempting to prove that Lewis was not insane when the alleged murder occurred.

Dr. Dutto Is Appointed As Health Commissioner

KINGSTON The appointment of Dr. Bartholomew J. Dutto, of Kingston, as full time commissioner of health for Ulster County, was announced today by Dr. Alfred M. Feldshuh, vice president of the Board of Health.

Dr. Dutto will assume his duties as commissioner April 16.

He served as deputy commissioner of health on a part time basis for several months in 1965 during the absence of the commissioner and was medical consultant to the Ulster County Department of Social Services from 1959 to 1967.

Dr. Dutto was also medical director of the county's Medical Assistance Program from 1967 to the present, he served as medical director of the County Infirmary since its 25th anniversary in 1972 and has been attending physician at the new Ulster County Infirmary since its opening.

Dr. Dutto succeeds Dr. William C. Taylor who resigned from the post of health commissioner late last year. Dr. William B. Plass director of the Ulster County Chest Clinic, has been serving as acting commissioner in the interim.

Although Dr. Dutto has accepted the post at a salary of $28,000 a year, the Finance Committee of the Ulster County Legislature has recommended a salary of $30,000.

The Public Health Committee of the Ulster County Legislature, whose chairman is Melvin Mones (R-City) is meeting tonight to make its salary recommendation.

Before any wage increase becomes effective, it must receive the approval of the Legislature, according to Chairman Peter J. Savago.

A graduate of Kingston schools, Dr. Dutto received his bachelor of science degree from Catholic University and his doctor of medicine from George Washington University. He served with the U. S. Army for five years during World War II and was discharged with the rank of major after participation in the European Theatre of Operations.

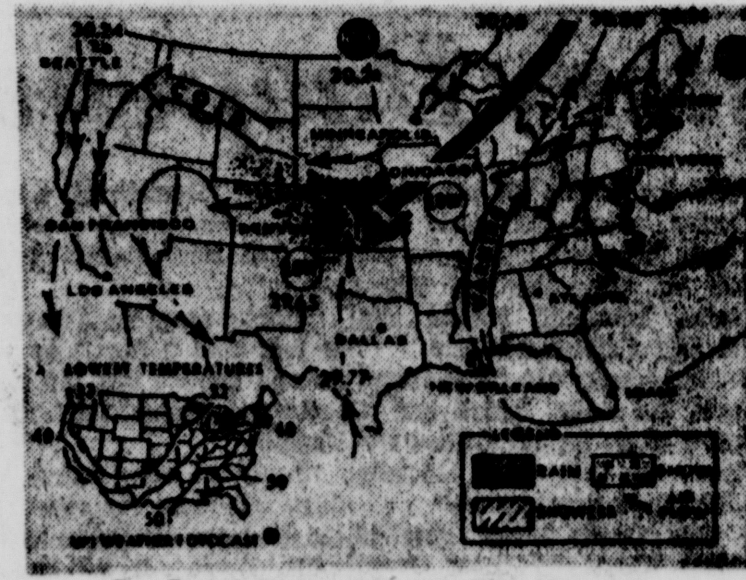

Since then he has practiced medicine in Kingston and is on the staff of Benedictine and Kingston Hospitals.

Dr. Dutto is a member and past president of the Ulster County Medical Society and a member of the New York State and American Medical Societies.

In 1970 he was reelected to active membership in the American Academy of General Practice, the national association of family doctors.

The Academy, the nation's second largest national medical association, is the only national medical group to keep up with medical progress through continuing education.

Dr. Dutto is married to the formerileen I. Rodgers. They are the parents of two children, Bartholomew J. Dutto Jr. and Barbara Jeanne. They reside at 147 N. Manor Avenue.

Rochester Conservation Commission ...Several Procedural Changes

TOWN OF ROCHESTER
The Town of Rochester Environmental Conservation Commission, following another shipment of 15 tons of paper to a recycling plant in Poughkeepsie, has announced several procedural changes for future recycling efforts.

According to Mrs. Katherine Wagenohr, chairman of the Conservation Commission, the Poughkeepsie recycling plant will no longer accept magazines, advertising flyers and phone books because the clay and colored ink they contain reportedly clog pulp making machinery.

As a result, the Commission has urged all residents to bring only "clean" paper to the collection depot at the town landfill.

In addition to regular newspaper, the commission will continue to accept IBM cards and stationery without carbon. If the latter two materials are separated and identified, it was noted, they will command a "premium" price at the reclamation center.

The Conservation Commission also requested that residents refrain from bringing aluminum and glass to the recycling depot until the landfill area can be cleaned. Mrs. Wagenohr noted that the recent heavy rainfalls have delayed sorting and shipment of the glass and aluminum already stored at the site. She urged residents to store their own glass and aluminum until the commission is able to ship its current backlog to the recycling center.

Mrs. Wagenohr noted that many of the operations at the recycling depot are hampered by a shortage of volunteers willing to do the necessary work. And, she noted that efforts are being made to improve the present system of transportation to enable the commission to collect a higher profit from the $20 earned for each ton of glass and aluminum shipped to the recycling center.

It costs approximately $6 to ship a ton of assorted aluminum cans, pots and pans, aluminum chairs, antennas, TV dinner trays, aluminum foil and pie tins to the recycling center.

The commission is currently investigating ways to reduce the shipping costs.

The commission has listed three major items necessary to improve and expedite its operations: good weather, more volunteers and a new landfill area complete with efficient and permanent recycling facilities for paper, glass, aluminum and organic matter.

Landfill Sites... Discussion Planned

TOWN OF ROCHESTER Attorney General's office Route 209 near the Rondout Valley Middle School, according to Kelder.

Discussion of six possible sites for a new Town of Rochester landfill operation is expected to highlight the meeting of the Town Board on Thursday, April 5 at 8 p.m. in the town hall.

Opposition to a proposed Airport Road location for the new landfill surfaced at a public meeting on that site in the February. Since then the Town Board has visited five other possible sites, according to Supervisor Franklin S. Kelder. Reports from the township's Board of Ethics and the State concerning the legality of the possible purchase of the Airport Road site from Town Zoning Inspector Leslie Osterhout are to be presented at the meeting, Kelder said.

"We want to give the people a chance to speak again," Kelder said, in announcing that meeting on that site will be on the agenda.

Other sites under consideration are located on Whitfield Road (two sites), Schwabie Turnpike, Boodle Hole Road and Queen's Highway, and

Several Areas To Gain Grants

ALBANY Several Hudson Valley areas, including Rosendale, received grants from the Ford Foundation for community environmental protection projects.

Twenty-one local conservation commissions throughout the state shared in the more than $26,000 from the Foundation, according to Henry L. Diamond, commissioner of environmental conservation.

A grant of $750 went to the Rosendale commission for the development of a public information program as part of an effort to upgrade management of the town's solid waste.

Other valley areas receiving similar grants of $750 were: Clinton Conservation Advisory Commission, Dutchess County, for preparation of a natural resource inventory of the town as a basis for further work in resource conservation.

Warwick Environmental Conservation Commission, Orange County, for completion of an open space inventory as a basis for further efforts in resource conservation, land use planning and citizen education.

Catskill Conservation Commission, Greene County, for a study to determine the feasibility of developing the village's dump site as an open space and recreation area.

A grant of $375 went to Fishkill Town Conservation Advisory Council, Dutchess County, for the preparation of a natural resources and open space index as a basis for further work in resource conservation and land use planning.

'Bring Back Bluebird' ...Shandaken Campaign

PHOENICIA A "Bring Back the Bluebird" separate post, six to ten feet high, at the edge of a field, orchard or garden.

Building plans for such a birdhouse are available at the Phoenicia Library.

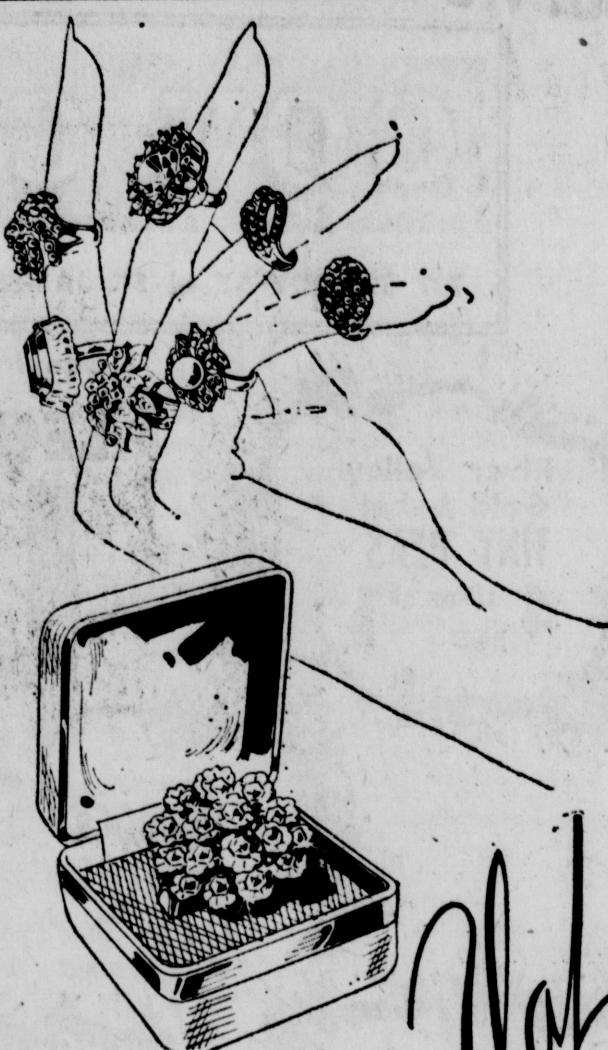

According to a Council spokesman, the birds, once a common sight in the Catskills, have been rapidly disappearing from the area, due in part to adverse environmental factors.

The traditional home of the bluebird, a spokesman said, is usually found in the trunks of hollow trees or in hole-ridden fence posts. Both the trees and the fence posts have been vanishing, due in part to modern farming methods and housing developments.

It has been observed, however, that bluebirds will come back if the right kind of birdhouses are provided. Ideally, a spokesman said, the

Letters to the Editor

Saving the U & D

Editor, The Freeman: The Sunday Freeman of March 18 carried an open letter to the honorable Edwin E. Mason and H. Clark Bell from Mr. Eugene C. Dauner of Port Jervis. Both of these esteemed leaders are in the forefront of our efforts to preserve the viable Catskill Mountain Branch of the Penn Central Railroad, better known to us old timers as the Ulster & Delaware. The practicability of continued operation of this railroad was early developed at the four days of hearings which were so capably covered and reported by your Mr. Jon Powers. The Department of Environmental Conservation is fully aware of all potentials for the railroad roadbed. It took no position at the Stamford hearings in December because: 1. Damage to the environment resulting from railroad abandonment would outweigh all possible recreational benefits by diversion of heavy freight to highways, creation of road hazards and the need for new ribbons of concrete as well as increased air and stream pollution. 2. Legal railroad salvage procedures would give the DEC ample time for acquisition under existing laws, specifically the Environmental Bond Act of 1972. 3. Present and future necessity and convenience as well as the social and economic health of Delaware and Schoharie counties and part of Ulster County require continued rail service. 4. Suggestions of alternative uses of the right of way at this time would be detrimental to the interests of the communities, the farmers, feed grain dealers, N. Y. State Dept. of Transportation and others who wish to preserve and expand use of the irreplaceable railroad facilities. It is pleasing to learn that Mr. Dauner supports the Drive to save the branch. We should not withdraw from a worthy cause merely because "there are considerable odds". We have far from lost the battle for railroad survival. The Hartke-Weicker bill, S.1031, if enacted with certain proposed amendments, would change the entire complexion. It would breathe new life into the northeastern railroads of the United States including the old Ulster & Delaware. We may even look forward to eventual restoration of a rail passenger service between Kingston and Stamford with ski trains and summer excursions to Bellaire and Roxbury, all through that inspiring country side which Mr. Eugene Dauner described. Not Interested

Editor, The Freeman: On Tuesday, March 20th, a group comprised of staff of the Ulster County Community Action Committee and community representatives went to Albany to meet with the assemblymen and senators and to discuss the state-funded Community Action Agencies. We had definite appointments with three men and none of these people kept their appointments. They were "too busy" to see us. In the afternoon, representatives from Community Action Agencies from all over the state assembled in Chancellor's Hall to speak before the legislature, interested community groups and the news media. Only two legislators were on hand — Mr. Arthur Eves of Buffalo and Mr. Thomas Fortune from Brooklyn. Mr. Eves gave the welcoming address. He is also sponsoring a bill which is in committee to have state supported local Community Action Agencies. No one else from the group that makes laws for our state came to see what value, if any, the Community Action Agencies have in their respective localities. Not one representative from Ulster County was present. In this county, the Ulster County Community Action Committee is the strongest advocate of and for the poor, and we represent the only voice for and of the poor. The groups we service in our three programs — Head Start, Outreach and Senior Citizens — represent about one third of the total population of this county. Our senators and assemblymen also represent them, yet they are not truly representing all the citizens of our area. I think that all the citizens of this county should know this and be aware of the quality of representation that we actually have and remember this when it comes time to once again return to the polls and elect people to serve this area. Thank you for the opportunity to write to you. Sincerely, GRETA MULLER Director of Outreach

Pet Plight

Editor, The Freeman: This letter is written in regard to the widespread animal problem existing in Ulster County. By this we mean the dogs and cats that roam the villages, cities and countryside of our County. We feel that the responsibility for these destitute animals belongs to any person who has ever loved or cared for a pet of his own. These pets are doomed by us. They will either go on scavenging for a meal and some shelter, be picked up and placed in our S.P.C.A., or die in the gutters of our streets. None is a suitable ending for these need to be loved animals. Lately, the outcry has been of the problems and damages these animals present to us and our children. Mr. Thayer advocates "shooting them," while Mrs. Hinchey cries "Let's get them off the streets!" This is not the answer. These animals are not really the problem. They are the result of human ignorance, neglect and cruelty. This is the problem. If you are concerned, please let us join together to fight man's inhumanity to our "best friends," feline and canine. If you really care, visit our local S.P.C.A. Talk to Mr. Adams, the manager, and view the depressing conditions that exist there. How many of us are aware of the sickness and disease that is rampant throughout? As it stands there is no way to control it because of lack of funds and public apathy. Can you accept this? Who exactly is to blame? We don't know. But let's find out and do something about it. There must be some people in our County who care, and maybe with an exchange of views and some dedication, we can help the situation. Please call one of us and let's get together and try. Thank you. Yours very truly, LOIS VAN KEUREN R.D. No. 3, Box 259-B Kingston, N.Y. 331-7342 MARY RUSSELL R.D. No. 1, Box 337-A Woodstock, N.Y. 679-2354

Rondout Budgets

Editor, The Freeman: A letter to you by Mr. M. Felson of the Rondout Valley School Board prompts me to write in regard to the Rondout Valley proposed school budget. He says, "The parents and taxpayers in New York should start demanding some accountability and responsibility from their educators." Frankly, I feel Rondout Valley is doing a great job in advertising and holding budget informational meetings so that we parents and taxpayers do know where our school tax dollars are going. These budget hearings, I believe, were a direct result of a tremendous jump in the budget (68 per cent) some years back; a budget that was approved without most of us knowing anything about it. It threw most of us into a state of shock. I and three others were dismayed enough to try to appeal the budget. The following year, as a result of this, the taxpayers defeated the proposed budget and we went on an austerity budget for one year. It was after this period that the school administration started sending news-letters to all residents in the school district advertising informational meetings to explain the budget. This has been done ever since and the Rondout Valley residents have ap-

German Heritage

Editor, The Freeman: I read your article in the Kingston Free Press concerning the Kingston Bicentennial parade. The Dutch are regarded as the first settlers, and you mentioned the latter emigrants but no mention of the Germans who settled here. The Rondout section of the city was a community of hard working people who also built those wonderful churches Trinity Lutheran, Immanuel Lutheran and St. Peter's Catholic Church. Their songs and culture are still preserved to day with the Kingston Maennerchor celebrating its one hundred and fifth anniversary this May. (Three years older than The Freeman). There is also a unit of the Steuben Society of America here to make us better citizens of this great land and especially our community. Yours truly, HEINZ J. VOGT Kingston, N. Y.

Ball Ban

Editor, The Freeman: What kind of city is this, where a group of kids playing softball have the police called on them regularly? We could understand if we were causing trouble, or obstructing traffic, but the street we play on has no traffic. We don't do anything to cause trouble, if we did we could see why certain neighbors of ours had a right to complain. But when these neighbors complain just for the sake of causing trouble, then they are miserable people. We appeal to these neighbors through this paper to leave us alone. We ask you why can't a group of kids play softball on a quiet street, something certainly better than running around causing trouble. Shawangunk Mountains Echo To Indian Drum Ceremony

NEW PALTZ played on the campus they re- their struggle for sovereignty for a Wounded Knee discussion. The American Indians and verberate off the Shawangunk Mountains, producing the ghost drums of the ceremony's title. Friends (AIF), hoping to raise the consciousness of the people of the New Paltz area concerning the problem of the American Indian, held a Ghost Drum Ceremony on the campus of the State University College at New Paltz Tuesday night.

The ceremony, according to Carol Salemi, one of the organizers of the newly-formed AIF, consisted of stories, legends, philosophy, round dancing, and drumming of the American Indian. It was called a ghost drum ceremony, she said, because when the drums are played, they echo the struggle for sovereignty and self-determination. They are being sent, once they are signed, to the U.S. Senators of New York State and the Dakota, and to President Nixon.

AIF has also gathered some money, and that has been sent to the American Indian Movement in South Dakota, members of which are prominent in the Indian occupation of Wounded Knee.

Members of AIF are also appearing on local radio and television to talk about Wounded Knee, and AIF's Stephen Gray, Morning and Carlton John are continuing its efforts "until things appear on Kingston are straightened out at Cablevision Thursday morning Wounded Knee."

Ellenville Board Rules Out Leases

By WADE BURKHART

ELLENVILLE After prolonged discussion, the Ellenville Board of Education not only confirmed its decision not to renew its lease for classroom space with the Ellenville Reformed Church, but further voted not to renew its lease with the Berger and Solomon Agency for the building now housing the school district's offices at a special meeting Tuesday night.

Whatever arrangements are needed to house the four kindergarten classes that have been held in the church building and the administrative staff, they will not involve split sessions next September, according to board resolution. The board voted not to go on split session in September 1973. Board member Jack Siegel made the resolution, he said, "clear the air" on the subject. The district had been renting four classrooms and a resource room from the church, and had again. Board members Sonia Olsen and Morris Posner were offered a one-year lease with a one-year option at $10,000 a year. The district had negotiated an offer of a five-year lease at $3,600 a year from Berger and Solomon.

The question of where to put the kindergarten classes will have to be resolved before next September, but a home for the administrative offices will have to be found much sooner. The lease for the administration building expires May 31, and District Clerk Sol Sashin said it would take about two weeks to move out.

Both the lease votes were close. A motion to renew the church lease failed 4-4, with Siegel abstaining. The lease for the administrative building was voted down 5-4.

A plan to house the kindergarten students will not be forthcoming until late May or early June, according to High School Principal Robert Bullock. Bullock may have to provide room in his building for some sixth grade classes to make room for the kindergarten classes. That plan was suggested by board member Lee Augustine.

Augustine also suggested that the administrative offices be housed in the basement of the high school. There was some opposition to that suggestion, and Hayden said he would call in experts from the State Education Department to get their opinions.

The date of May 2 was set for district elections and voting on the budget. The terms of board members James J. Murray, Frederick R. VanKeuren, and Dr. James F. Cone Jr. are expiring, and they have indicated they will not run

Dutchess Notices Not From County

RED HOOK trends of that year. They are not an assessment. County Representative Madison Sipperley Jr. has prompted him to point out that newly acquired appraisal notices are not from the county.

Sipperley said that many complaints have been received from residents of Red Hook especially and from other areas of his district also.

"I would like to take this opportunity to dispel some of the rumors that are circulating about these new appraisal notices," he said.

The notices are from Cole-Layer-Trumble, the company hired by Dutchess County to do its tax mapping and reappraisal work.

This company, working on the appraisal of all property in the county since 1971, recently finished its field work and final abulations.

All of the notices that were mailed to property owners state the fair market value of each piece of property and informs the taxpayers that they may make an appointment with the appraisal company to discuss their appraisals.

The appraisals are based on 1971 fair market value, he said, and should reflect the economic

Rhinebeck Planners Begin Study Period

RHINEBECK Inc., $21 million for construction of the 800 unit undertaking. With all necessary documentation submitted to the Rhinebeck Town Planning Board on the proposed Planned Unit Development on River Road, a 90-day study period by the board has begun.

The Planning Board received prior to its Monday night meeting financial documents from the Mortgage Corporation of America, a Miami lending firm.

This firm has announced its intention of lending developer Douglas Palermo, president of N. M. Palermo Development, Inc., $21 million for construction of the 800 unit undertaking.

If the Planning Board makes no recommendation on the proposal, it will be interpreted by the Town Board as a recommendation in favor.

The development would be one of the largest in the Mid-Hudson Valley if approved. It would be constructed on about 400 acres of former Ferncliff Home and Teen Challenge property, and has been titled "Ferncliff" overlooking the Hudson River across from Kingston.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, MARCH 28, 1973

JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — FBI agents, equipped with pencil, pad and "A Handbook for Federal Obscenity Prosecutions," are reviewing X-rated movies across the country on the lookout for pornography.

A Justice Department memo to all U.S. attorneys reports that the FBI "has been requested to make a survey of all X-rated films being commercially distributed and exhibited."

Taking its cue from President Nixon, the department has ordered a crack-down on "hard-core pornographic" movies. The President, who prefers war movies, takes a dim view of films that expose too much skin and has banned all

X-rated films from the White House screening room. The G-men have been ordered to watch for "explicit sexual conduct, which appears to have been included in the production solely or primarily for the purpose of appealing to prurient interests."

"While our primary interest is in prosecuting the persons responsible for distributing the films, the advisability of including as defendants the local exhibitor, especially if he is uncooperative, should not be overlooked."

The memo declares that the FBI "has willingly accepted this assignment and is currently making the requested observations of films." Reportedly, they are viewing not only the blatantly hard-core flicks like "Deep Throat" and "Hot Circuit" but also such highly acclaimed but X-rated films as "Last Tango in Paris."

Assistant Attorney General Henry Peterson, in the memo dated March 2, explains why the FBI has been ordered to turn movie critic. "The Department, in fulfilling the Administration's commitment to vigorously enforce the laws prohibiting the dissemination of obscene matter," he writes, "deems it urgently necessary to take stringent measures" to stop the spread of pornography.

Footnote: Last year, the Justice Department launched more than 90 investigations against major distributors of pornographic materials. This compares to only five investigations that were underway when President Nixon took office in 1969.

Little Cigars

Three powerful senators have issued a quiet warning to the minicigar industry to keep their advertising off television. The makers of Dutch Treat "little cigars," nevertheless, are going ahead with TV commercials.

Other producers likely will feel they, too, must advertise their little cigars on television to keep up with the competition. This would put the industry on a collision course with Sen. Warren Magnuson, D-Wash., Frank Moss, D-Utah, and Marlow Cook, R-Ky., all members of the powerful Senate Commerce Committee which has jurisdiction over tobacco advertising.

The three senators believe the small cheroots are too much like cigarettes, which cannot legally be advertised on television. Like cigarettes, little cigars are too easily inhaled and, therefore, may cause lung cancer, heart disease and other smokers' ills.

Relying on persuasion, the three senators convinced both Reynolds and Lorillard to take their little cigar commercials off TV. But Consolidated Cigars, run by tough, talkative Ed Kelley, defied the senators.

The company already is showing its Dutch Treat commercials on TV in six test markets and is preparing national commercials. Kelley claims Dutch Treat contains no cigarette-type tobacco and, therefore, shouldn't come under the cigarette ban.

He will be careful, however, to remove all puffing scenes, to avoid showing women smoking and to keep the commercials off shows watched by children. He hopes to build up the market for Dutch Treats before Congress or some federal agency can get around to banning the commercials from the air.

The three senators got wind of Kelley's preparations and rushed off a polite but pointed letter to minicigar makers: "We are sure that you are aware of the decision by P. Lorillard and R. J. Reynolds to terminate broadcast advertising for Omega and Winchester little cigars."

"We would hope that you, too, in the exercise of your social responsibility, would assure us that you will refrain from advertising such products on the broadcast media."

The senators hope the industry will take the hint; otherwise, they may find it necessary to take stronger action.

FBI Targets Hard Core Porn

"Aren't They Just Supposed to Sell Little Souvenir Trinkets!"

Inside Report

Jettisoning Gray

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — The White House has privately — and not at all tearfully — given up hopes that the Senate will confirm L. Patrick Gray as the second director of the FBI, believing that Gray buried himself with his own blundering.

A serious search for Gray's successor has not yet begun, contrary to published reports that President Nixon has decided on Chief Jerry Wilson of the Washington, D. C., metropolitan police. Indeed, high presidential aides say flatly there is no chance of Wilson being named.

An experienced police officer such as Wilson is not being sought as the ultimate successor to J. Edgar Hoover. Rather, the job description talked about is a middle-level administration official (preferably with Justice Department experience) who, unlike Gray, has no connections with either the Watergate scandal or the Nixon political apparatus.

While some Republican Senators complain Mr. Nixon cruelly undercut Gray by restricting his testimony to the Senate Judiciary Committee, the White House feels he undercut himself by talking too much — believing Gray blundered by not seeking counsel from his superior, Atty. Gen. Richard Kleindienst, prior to the confirmation hearings.

What's more, the White House worries that Gray's deteriorating condition will get even worse if the Judiciary Committee begins to probe his record as acting FBI director. He could suffer from prospective testimony by recently resigned assistant FBI director Thomas Bishop, a Hoover protege and Gray's bitter critic (so far in private).

Under sharp questioning, Bishop's famed temper could explode against Gray's record.

In sum, Mr. Nixon has no hopes of Gray being confirmed but prefers to have the Senate kill him off rather than withdraw his nomination. The White House counts on chairman James O. Eastland of Mississippi to force a Judiciary Committee vote that, barring startling changes, would reject Gray.

As for Washington police chief Wilson, the rumor of Mr. Nixon offering him the FBI directorship during their recent chat is pure fiction. In truth, the President regards Wilson as a superb police chief with an excellent crime battling record but unqualified for the FBI hot seat.

The Great Veto Fight
With no fewer than 35

organizations present, backstage plotting to overturn President Nixon's certain veto of the $2.6 billion vocational rehabilitation bill started Wednesday behind closed doors in the Rayburn House Office Building — plotting that could profoundly influence the battle of the budget.

The fate of the three-year authorization bill is perceived both by White House strategists and leaders of the Democratic-controlled Congress as pivotal, with psychological side effects on the President's veto strategy to reduce federal spending. If the Democrats overturn this first veto, the President's veto psychology will suffer, strengthening the Democrats' anti-veto position on a dozen other bills.

With a two-thirds majority required to override a veto, House Republican leader Gerald Ford of Michigan needs only 146 votes to sustain the President. At this writing, that total is easily within reach if an expected 25 to 30 conservative Democrats vote for Mr. Nixon.

But over the next ten days, those odds could shift, depending on the success of the lobbying effort. The 35 organizations which met Wednesday included the AFL-CIO (represented by its potent lobbyist, Andrew Biemiller).

the United Auto Workers, a dozen national organizations (including Easter Seal) and state mental health departments.

Their basic pitch was worked out by Rep. John Brademas of Indiana, chairman of the Education subcommittee that drafted the bill at a level almost one billion dollars less than the rehabilitation bill vetoed by the President last fall.

The pitch: rehabilitation, including vocational training, is a 50-year-old program with strong voter support. The hope: lobbying organizations can get a massive mail campaign going to minimize Democratic defections and maximize Republican support for overriding Mr. Nixon.

That Republican support includes the prestigious Rep. Albert Quie of Minnesota, senior Republican on the House Education and Labor Committee. But Mr. Nixon probably has the important help of Rep. Joe Waggoner of Louisiana, the influential leader of conservative Democrats.

Waggoner is keeping quiet, but his intention to vote to sustain Mr. Nixon is known to Democratic leaders. If he really works, he could capture those 25 or 30 conservative Democrats, most of them Southerners, that Mr. Nixon needs.

Rockefeller Is Confronted With Adirondack Plan Delay

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, who wants legislative action this year on an Adirondack zoning plan, is confronted today with votes in both the Assembly and Senate saying the legislature would rather wait until next year.

By a 33-22 vote, the Senate passed a bill Tuesday that would put off until next year any action on the Adirondack Park Agency's proposed master plan for the 3.7 million acres of private lands in the park.

The same bill was passed by a two-to-one margin in the Assembly last week.

Sponsors of the delay measure were saying Tuesday night that they hope Rockefeller will reconsider his opposition to the bill and sign it into law.

Others were speculating that the bill would become a bargaining chip the Adirondack-area legislators could use in winning compromises from the governor on the plan, even if he votes the bill and the plan is approved this year.

"I think the governor is really going to have to do some soul searching before he votes

Girl Hospitalized, Companion Killed

MADRID (AP) — Bonnie Sonnenfeld, 26, of Endicott, N.Y., remained hospitalized in the Canary Islands Tuesday following the mystery death of her travelling companion.

Orestes Mendez, of the Bronx, U.S. consular officials reported. Miss Sonnenfeld, who was found badly injured in an apartment where the body of Mendez was discovered by police March 5, faces no charges and is free to leave the hospital at Santa Cruz, Tenerife, when she is physically able, officials said.

But, the officials added, Spanish police at the Canary Island resort have given no cause of death nor any explanation for Miss Sonnenfeld's injuries.

U.S. Consul General Harvey Cash said he spoke by phone with Miss Sonnenfeld and she reported she still was suffering pain from a leg fracture.

She was found barely conscious in an apartment at the small town of Las Rocas de Fasnia. She and Mendez had been travelling together for several months, U.S. consular officials said.

Miss Sonnenfeld told police and U.S. officials she remembers nothing after Mendez became excited when he found a pet cat dead.

The 23-year-old Mendez was believed to have arrived at Tenerife with Miss Sonnenfeld in January.

Sharp Drop in Livestock Prices

By United Press International

Everybody from meat packers to cattle rustlers and politicians to moonshiners involved themselves today in maneuvers affecting the cost of the family's food budget.

There were calls for price controls and warnings of higher labor demands if upward price spirals aren't slowed.

There was evidence that the message from a mounting consumers' revolt was beginning to be heard as livestock market reported a sharp drop in prices, though there was a warning the tactic could backfire.

Oren Lee Staley, president of the National Farmers Organization (NFO), hinted that farmers may counter with a strike of their own if consumers drive down meat prices by successful boycotts. He said NFO will hold a series of meetings this weekend to plan action and said "The sharp decline in livestock prices caused by the chain store boycott is going to mean positive NFO action next week."

AFL-CIO President George Meany urged Congress to clamp price controls on farm products, reimpose rent controls and enact an excess profits tax. He warned that unions will be forced to demand wage increases if prices continue to climb.

The promoters of "April Fool's Week" meat boycott said they were surprised at how talk of the protest has spread although there was no central organized effort behind it.

Hog prices were off $3 to $4.25 at markets in Nashville, Memphis and the Georgia-Florida-Alabama market at Thomasville, Ga. At St. Louis hog prices dipped by $3 per hundredweight, the sharpest one-day decline on record, and prices were as much as $3.75 lower at Omaha, Neb., Louisville, Ind., and Joliet, Ill.

In Oklahoma, cattle prices recorded one-day drops of $3 to $5 per hundredweight. "It is our biggest single day drop," Troy McKelvey of the United Livestock Commission reported.

In New York, the city Health

Department released a "money saving menu" based on low-cost, high protein foods. It contained no meat and was dominated by cheeses and seafood.

An official of a New York City supermarket group pleaded innocent to federal charges of conspiring to bribe meat buyers and labor officials to overcome resistance to boxed beef shipped from Nebraska and Iowa to the New York area.

Cattlemen in California's Sierra foothills armed themselves to hunt rustlers who have been stealing and butchering cows to cash in on skyrocketing beef prices, and warned that moonshiners and safe-crackers were turning to cattle rustling because it promises bigger profits.

In Portland, Ore., Ed Carroll, owner of the J.H. Horsemeat market was out of stock again Tuesday. Carroll opened business at 9 a.m. Monday and by 2 p.m. block-long lines that ran five-deep at his counter had disappeared. So had his 3,700 pounds of horsemeat, which sold at a top price of 95 cents a pound for tenderloin horse steak, compared with $2.95 for beef tenderloin.

Consumers Supermarket, a food store cooperative in the Maryland and Virginia suburbs of Washington, announced those stores would be closed this

Saturday in a "protest aimed at stimulating the White House to take action against the outrageous spiral of food prices."

In Boston, Purity Supreme Supermarkets announced it was supporting the boycott with a "meatless day" April 2. Purity Supreme has 36 stores in eastern Massachusetts and New Hampshire.

Drug Enforcement Agency... Nixon's Plan Going to Congress

WASHINGTON (UPI) —

President Nixon sends to Congress today a plan to consolidate under one super agency within the Justice Department all drug law enforcement responsibilities.

The reorganization plan would bring under one roof several agencies now enforcing the narcotics laws, including the Bureau of Customs, the Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs and the Office of Drug Abuse Law Enforcement.

A similar super agency was recommended in the final report of the National Commission on Marijuana and Drug Abuse, which was submitted to Nixon last Thursday after a two-year study. The commission also recommended legalization of marijuana which the President consistently has rejected.

The reorganization plan will go into effect unless it is vetoed by either the House or Senate within 60 days.

Some 500 customs agents who are now working directly on narcotics problems in the Treasury Department will be moved over to the Justice Department.

Also involved in the consolidation will be the research and development efforts now under way in various agencies for drug law enforcement, both domestically and international.

However, rehabilitation and education programs would not be involved in the transfer to a new super agency.

The White House last week indicated that Myles J. Ambrose, a special assistant attorney general and director of drug abuse law enforcement, would leave the government after overseeing the transition to the new agency, and a new director would be placed in charge of the program.

The commission, in its report, sharply criticized federal law enforcement efforts.

"Interagency rivalry and lack of coordination have seriously hampered prevention of illegal drug trafficking," the commission said.

It said that sometimes a "bitter dispute" exists between the Bureau of Narcotics and the Bureau of Customs regarding which agency has the primary authority to carry out investigations overseas and in cases where illegal drugs cross the border into the domestic market.

Agreement Is Reached At Concord Hotel

KIAMESHA LAKE — The resort closed on March 1 after a collective bargaining agreement between the Concord Hotel, Restaurant and Bartender's Union and Local 343 of the Hotel, Restaurant and Bartender's Union expired and an impasse was reached between management and the union.

Union employees unanimously approved a contract offer on Tuesday, and will start back to work, allowing the resort hotel to reopen.

Full details of the pact with the 800-member union are not available, but according to a union spokesman it includes a five-day, 40-hour work week to take effect September of next year. A six-day, 48-hour week is now in effect.

Wage increases and a substantial increase in the Concord contribution to the employees' welfare and pension fund are also included in the pact, the spokesman said.

Other advances in the area of fringe benefits are also included, it was indicated.

The contract, which is expected to run 50 to 60 pages, is presently being checked by attorneys. The union spokesman said he foresees the signing by the union and management "within the week."

With the reopening of the hotel's doors, "a packed house" is anticipated this weekend, according to a hotel spokesman.

Zoning Is Topic of Discussion

STANFORDVILLE — Zoning was the principal topic of discussion at a meeting of the Stanfordville Citizens Association held recently at the United Church of Christ School Hall in Stanfordville.

Col. Robert N. Dennison, chairman of the planning board, and Spencer Robinson, chairman of the zoning commission, were present to answer questions.

The zoning commission presented a plan to the town board in March of 1972. Public hearings on the plan have been held, but the plan has not yet been adopted.

In an association statement released after the meeting, it was said, "It is the hope of the Association that zoning will be enacted promptly to prevent future improper development of land."

SOCIETY PLANS RR SESSION

WOODSTOCK — The Historical Society of Woodstock has announced a public meeting for Thursday, March 29, at Deane's Restaurant, in Woodstock at 8 p.m.

The Penn Central Railroad has filed for abandonment of its Catskill Mountain Branch (formerly Ulster & Delaware R.R.) This meeting concerns possible recreation use of the line should it be abandoned. Speaker for the meeting will be Eugene C. Dauner, a society trustee.

Dauner has advanced the suggestion that the State of New York acquire the U&D RR grade to be used as a four-season recreational pathway controlled by the Department of Environmental Conservation. Many uses have been suggested such as hiking, snowmobiling, snow shoeing, bicycling, path-way to fishing spots.

The purpose of the meeting is to discuss these uses and present a series of color slides showing the scenery along the 26 miles involved, running from Boiceville to Arkville. Dauner has taken over 1500 photos of the U&D in the past ten years, and he has selected the best of these to present at the meeting. They cover all subjects vital to the U&D: its scenery, structures, and trains.

OBITUARIES

Harold F. Cutler, 70, of 164 Fair Street, Kingston, died in Kingston Tuesday. Cremation took place this morning at the Gardner-Earl Memorial Crematorium in Troy. Surviving are a niece, Miss Grace Jane Cutler of Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., and a nephew, George E. Cutler Jr. of Cheshire, Conn. There will be no funeral services. Arrangements by the A. Carr and Son Funeral Home, 1 Pearl Street, Kingston.

Mrs. Maude M. Hildebrandt, 80, of 208 Market Street, Saugerties, died at her residence Tuesday morning. She was a lifelong resident of the Town of Saugerties and was born in Quarryville, Nov. 13, 1892, daughter of the late Asa and Rose Shoub Teetsel. She was the widow of David E. Hildebrandt, who died in 1968. Surviving are three sons, David H., George L., both of Saugerties, and retired Lieutenant Colonel Frank B. Hildebrandt of Fayetteville, N.C. Also surviving are six grandchildren. She was a member of the Saugerties Lutheran Church of Attonement. Change banks.

Now. Come to Heritage. The timing is right, and so is the interest.

It's the end of the quarter. Interest on your present account has already been paid. So it's the perfect time to make your move. Especially if your money isn't earning the highest interest permitted by law, as it will at Heritage. Or, if it's "tied up" in a regular savings account, where withdrawals before the end of a quarter lose interest for the entire quarter.

Both reasons are good ones for changing to Heritage. First, consider interest. It's tops at Heritage. For example, your money earns 5.20% effective annual yield on 5% regular and day-of-deposit to day-of-withdrawal accounts. We also pay highest interest on term accounts. For example, 6.27% effective annual yield on 6% two- to five-year certificates of deposit (minimum deposit of $1000).

Second, look at the advantages of changing your present regular account to a day-of-deposit to day-of-withdrawal account at Heritage. It's the account that's best for most people because it permits withdrawals at any time without loss of interest, as long as a balance of $10 remains on deposit.

Of course, some depositors still prefer the regular savings account. If you're one who does, why not transfer it to Heritage during the bonus interest period? As always, money deposited by the 10th of the month earns interest from the first.

There are lots of other good reasons, too, for coming to Heritage: safe deposit boxes, free personal money orders for depositors, low-cost Savings Bank Life Insurance, postage-paid banking by mail, free customer parking and convenient hours and locations. All enhanced by efficient, courteous service.

Why not make your move now?

Dutchess Man Is Killed In Accident

FISHKILL, N.Y. (AP) — An 18-year-old Dutchess County man was killed when the motorcycle he was driving crashed into a tree in the nearby Town of East Fishkill, police reported.

Authorities said Brian Hooker of nearby Hopewell Junction was found dead at the scene of the early Tuesday evening accident. Police said Hooker apparently failed to negotiate a turn at an intersection and slammed into a tree on the side of the road.

Bus Hijacked In Thailand

BANGKOK, Thailand, (AP) — A group of armed Thais hijacked a bus and 30 passengers in northeast Thailand today, forced it to drive to Bangkok airport and demanded a plane to fly them to Peking.

Military sources said about "five or six Thais armed with at least one hand grenade and a pistol" were holding the passengers hostage in the bus at the airport.

The group said they were members of the Thai Black September organization, an organization previously unknown to authorities.

Officials said the hijackers took over the bus near Korat, about 150 miles northeast of Bangkok.

Burglary Is Under Investigation

TOWN OF HURLEY
Ulster County Sheriff's Department deputies are investigating a burglary Tuesday afternoon at the home of C. J. Gross on Hilltop Drive in the Town of Ulster.

William McGraff, of Phoenicia, who police said is living in the house as a caretaker while the owner is in Florida, reported that the burglary apparently occurred some time between 4 p.m. when the maid left for the day and 8:45 p.m., when he returned and found the rear door open. The burglar alarm was set but had not gone off, McGraff said.

Deputies Bart Kniffen and Einer Knutsen reported that the living room rugs had been disarranged, perhaps when the thief or thieves were interrupted and left hurriedly. A list of articles missing will have to wait for the owner's return from Florida for an inventory, they said.

Agricultural Hearing ... No Opposition

MARLBORO
No opposition to the proposed creation of an agricultural district within the Town of Marlboro and the hamlet of Marlboro was expressed at a public hearing held Monday at the Milton Elementary School, according to County Legislator Philip H. Davis (R-Dist. 11).

Davis said that approval has also been given to the creation of new agricultural districts in the Milton area of Marlboro and the Clintondale area of the Town of Lloyd. He also indicated that two other districts are under consideration — the Ardona section of Plattekill and an area of New Paltz running between the State University and Lake Mohonk.

Davis said that there has been little opposition to the district proposals, especially after residents realize that the creation of the districts results in a savings of tax dollars.

Hill Sentencing Is Adjourned

KINGSTON
Sentencing of William Edward Hill, convicted Feb. 28 of the strangulation murder of 67-year-old Mrs. Alice Upright of Cottekill last August, was adjourned today until April 11 by County Court Judge Raymond J. Mino.

The adjournment was requested by defense attorney Joshua Koplovitz. Koplovitz told the court that he had just learned that Hill refused to speak with a probation officer following the trial. The attorney told the court that he has since impressed upon Hill the importance of the probation department's report, and said he has received assurances from Hill that he will talk to the probation officer before the April 11 sentencing date.

Koplovitz said he believes that Hill now realizes that the probation report may have a bearing on the sentence decided on by the judge.

BCI Investigator

Senior BCI Investigator Peter B. Goodwin will apprise members of the Rhinebeck Chamber of Commerce on "Burglary and Shoplifting" March 29. The occasion is the Spring dinner meeting of the Chamber, to be held at Foster's Coach House beginning at 7:30 p.m. Reservations may be made with the Chamber office through March 27 at 876-4212.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market opened moving higher again today in continuation of an upward spiral that began Monday and picked up steam Tuesday.

Advancing stocks led declining by about 3-1/2. The early volume leader was American Telephone & Telegraph Warrants, up 1/4 to 7; Talcott National, unchanged at 17 and Gulf Oil, unchanged at 24 1/2.

Stock market prices were up sharply Tuesday and the Dow Jones average of 30 industrials rocketed up 17.01, its highest gain in a single day since Nov. 26, 1971, when it moved up 17.96 points following an announcement by President Nixon ending a long dock strike.

Recycling Drive

The Town of Esopus Environmental Conservation Commission has announced that it will conduct a recycling drive for newspapers, magazines, glass and aluminum this Saturday from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. The drive will take place at the commission's recycling shed near the Salem Street railroad crossing, according to Mrs. Evelyn Gilman, chairman.

Intensive Picketing Campaign Planned By Irate Housewives

KINGSTON

Consumers fighting the food price spiral will mount an intensive picketing campaign this Saturday throughout the Kingston area, with the demonstration scheduled to continue through April 7.

Those plans were formulated at Tuesday's meeting of "Irate Housewives," a group organized three weeks ago to pressure the federal government to "roll-back" the price of food. Some 200 consumers attended Tuesday's meeting at the Old Dutch Church.

According to Mrs. Ethel Thomas of Lake Katrine, "every supermarket" in the Kingston area will be picketed Saturday, and again from April 2-7. Mrs. Thomas said the picketing will continue each day from 9 a.m. until the stores close at night.

Some 40 women picketed six local supermarkets last Saturday, but organizers weren't at all pleased with the turnout. One woman said at Tuesday's meeting that area consumers "aren't putting forth the physical effort" necessary for the campaign to succeed, and urged the housewives to turn out "en masse" for the upcoming demonstrations.

Next week has been billed as a "conscience week" for area consumers, with a complete boycott of meat urged for the six day period. After that, consumers will be urged to purchase only minimal quantities of meat for the next 45 days. The housewives were also warned Tuesday night not to succumb to what they described as "high-pressure" sales campaigns food retailers are expected to promote next week in an effort to neutralize the effects of the planned boycott. They also said supermarkets can be expected to offer exceptionally low prices on some items in order to "lure" shoppers inside the store, where they will be "gouged" by other meet again Tuesday at 8 p.m. at the Old Dutch Church.

Paltz Police, Volunteers Rescue Woman

NEW PALTZ

A New Paltz woman escaped possible death early today when New Paltz village police investigated the smell of smoke in the downtown area and discovered a mattress fire on North Chestnut Street.

Patrolman William Taggart first noticed the smell of smoke shortly before 3 a.m. He was joined by Sergeant Richard Thompson in a search. They spotted the fire in a third floor apartment at 12 North Chestnut Street and roused the occupants of the frame dwelling, summoning firemen at 2:50 a.m.

Assistant Chief Bruce Ashton and 15 New Paltz volunteer firemen with three pieces of equipment answered the alarm. Mary Luillar, 22, was found asleep on the burning mattress and was taken from the building. She suffered burns on her left arm and elbow and was treated by firemen at the scene.

Fire damage was confined to the mattress. Smoke ejectors were installed to remove heavy smoke from the apartment before firemen were recalled at 3:30 a.m.

Executive Privilege Old Issue

WASHINGTON (AP) — At least 10 earlier presidents have clashed with Congress over executive privilege, a controversy almost as old as the nation—and one in which President Nixon has invited a Supreme Court test.

The issue is whether it is the right of a president to deny Congress access to the testimony or papers of executive branch officials.

The controversy has reached the courts before, but there never has been a definitive decision. Nixon said it may be the time to get one.

Nixon has refused to send his legal counsel, John W. Dean III, to testify before the Senate Judiciary Committee, which is considering the nomination of L. Patrick Gray III as FBI director.

Nixon has ample precedent for his insistence on executive privilege.

The privilege doctrine was invoked by the first president, George Washington. Others who relied on it were Thomas Jefferson, Andrew Jackson, John Tyler, Ulysses S. Grant, Grover Cleveland, William Howard Taft, Herbert Hoover, Franklin D. Roosevelt and Dwight D. Eisenhower.

In 1796, Washington refused to turn over to the House correspondence and other documents and instructions given to John Jay in connection with a treaty with England. Washington's position was that the material was not "relative to any purpose under the cognizance of the House."

When the House adopted a resolution insisting that it had a right to the information, Washington was defended by James Madison, later to become president. Washington gave some of the data to the Senate, but not the House, for use during consideration of the treaty.

Jefferson got into the privilege controversy in 1807 during the trial of Aaron Burr for treason. Burr subpoenaed a letter written to Jefferson by Gen. James Wilkinson. Jefferson claimed the letter was private and probably involved the national safety. He finally agreed to let government counsel withhold parts of the letter not directly material for purposes of justice.

Chief Justice Marshall ruled that "a privilege does exist to withhold private letters of a certain description."

"Yet it is a very serious thing," he added, "if such a letter should contain any information material to the defense, to withhold from the accused the power of making use of it."

But the chief justice said he could not "precisely lay down any general rule for such a case."

In 1833, the Senate asked President Jackson for a copy of instructions he reportedly read at a Cabinet meeting regarding withdrawal of funds from the United States Bank. Jackson refused, saying there was no constitutional authority for the Senate "to require of me an account of any communication, either verbally or in writing, made to the heads of departments, acting as a Cabinet council."

The House clashed with President Tyler in 1842 over a request for names of congressmen who had applied for federal office. Tyler refused the request as an invasion of the executive's jurisdiction.

In 1843, Tyler refused to give the House information it requested about alleged frauds by Indian agents. The House adopted a strongly worded resolution demanding the information, and Tyler provided some, but not all, of it.

Grant's run-in also was with the House, which, in 1876, wanted to know if any executive acts had been performed at a distance from Washington. Grant refused, asserting executive acts and where they were performed were solely in the province of the executive.

In 1902, President Cleveland refused to allow his attorney general to give the Senate papers relating to suspension of a district attorney.

Cleveland said the papers were "purely unofficial and private" and dealt with "the performance of a duty exclusively mine." The Senate adopted a resolution condemning his action, but it did not get the papers.

Taft's confrontation was in 1912, when he directed his attorney general not to yield to Senate demands for correspondence of the Bureau of Corporations relative to the so-called Harvester Trust. He said it was not compatible with the public interest to provide the information.

In 1930, President Hoover rejected a Senate demand for papers relevant to negotiation of the London treaty for reduction of naval armament. He said some of the papers contained "very frank" comments about officials of other nations. The Senate modified its demands and Hoover gave it some of the papers.

Franklin Roosevelt refused to allow the Justice Department to turn over to the House Naval Affairs Committee reports and files for use in a probe of strikes and subversive activities in establishments having naval contracts. The attorney general said the documents were confidential.

Drug Panel Lists More Findings

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal drug commission recently rated alcoholism as America's number one drug problem. Heroin was second. Marijuana ran far back.

The panel said government efforts to discourage drug use are disorganized, based on public misconceptions and possibly are making matters worse instead of better.

It called for a new federal antidrug agency with sweeping powers and a limited lifespan. But it said the public, including doctors, educators, communicators, distillers, brewers, clergy and parents, must do even more than government if America's drug problems are to diminish.

The findings were issued by the National Commission on Marijuana and Drug Abuse, which spent $1 million and visited 36 nations in a two-year investigation of drug use for Congress and the President. Its chairman is the former Republican governor of Pennsylvania, Raymond P. Shafer.

The commission also said: —Overuse of legal barbiturate sedatives, especially by housewives, is "America's hidden drug problem."

—Persons arrested for heroin possession should be given treatment or counseling and jail or fines imposed only if they refuse or drop out.

—Most drug information material is factually wrong and shouldn't be distributed. Future material should be screened for accuracy.

—Educators should consider a freeze on classroom drug instruction, much of which is shoddy and may actually stimulate interest in drug use.

The 482-page report was the second and final one by the relatively conservative panel, which consists of nine members appointed by President Nixon and four by Congress.

A year ago the commission reported on marijuana, which it found to be virtually harmless to the casual user and to American society. Thursday it reaffirmed its recommendation, which has been firmly rejected by President Nixon and largely ignored by Congress, that criminal penalties be ended for smoking marijuana or holding small quantities of it.

In both reports the commission reasoned that society shouldn't prohibit drugs merely because they injure the user. To do so would require prohibition of barbiturates, alcohol and tobacco before all others, it said. Rather individuals should be free to choose whether or not to use a drug unless the substance causes crime or other behavior that hurts society.

Judged on that basis, the panel said, "the most serious concern in contemporary America should attach to the use of alcohol and heroin."

"Moderate social concern should attach to the use of amphetamines, barbiturates, hallucinogens, methaqualone and cocaine, the use of which is relatively well-controlled."

Between alcohol and heroin, it said, "alcohol dependence is without question the most serious drug problem in this country today." It is strongly associated with violent crime, automobile accidents and deaths, suicide, broken marriages and job absenteeism.

Heroin is also a serious problem because it is strongly habit-forming, attractive to slum youth and others who are unhappy or bored and often leads to thefts, burglary, drug-pushing or prostitution as means of paying for the expensive drug.

But the commission said that only a tiny percentage of Americans ever try heroin, fewer than half of them keep on using it, it seldom is associated with violent crime and the extent of heroin-related stealing is often exaggerated.

The commission was sharply critical of governmental efforts to curb drug use. It said hasty reaction to public outcry had led to a massive "drug abuse industrial complex," a federal bureaucracy that spends nearly $1 billion a year on questionable programs.

This bureaucracy may be perpetuating drug use, rather than discouraging it, the panel said.

The commission urged a new federal antidrug agency that would absorb the law enforcement, treatment and prevention functions now spread through nearly a dozen agencies.

The commission also suggested ways to streamline law enforcement, including precautions against corruption of policemen by drug pushers, and urged states to set up treatment systems paid for mainly by the federal government.

that lead to drug use. The report was unanimously supported by the commission, except for the recommendation to create a new federal agency. Sens. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., and Harold Hughes, D-Iowa, said they agreed with criticisms of present federal antidrug policy, but felt President Nixon's year-old Special Action Office on Drug Abuse Prevention deserved more time to prove itself.

Pack 3 Wins Highest Award

KINGSTON
The Rip Van Winkle Council, Boy Scouts of America, presented their "1973 Scout Spectacular" at the Kingston Armory Saturday. Scouts were judged on their ability and speed in performing a variety of sports events. Booths were rated on their overall appearance and the activity of the scouts and leaders to the booth theme.

The President's Award, the highest award presented, was won by St. Joseph's Cub Pack 3 Kingston. The boys of Pack 3 won first place in two of the four Cub events. The "Theme" that won the first place booth award for Pack 3 was Helping the Environment. In a 14 by 14 foot area they set up a solid waste recycling station crushing glass, sorting and crushing cans and bundling newspapers. In addition they showed the public some things that can be made from waste material. They accepted donations for items they made which amounted to $15.47 and the total proceeds from their booth money, glass, metal and paper were donated to the Association for Retarded Children who operate the Recycling Center at 2 Jansen Avenue in Kingston.

On behalf of Pack 3 the committee chairman, Ed Higgins, has expressed his thanks to all who helped make the event such a success — the scouts themselves, the committee, Den Leaders, and those parents who donated their time for the benefit of the boys.

Cub Pack 103 Hurley Dinner, Growth Cited

HURLEY
Cub Scout Pack 103 recently held its Blue and Gold Dinner at St. Joseph's Mission Hall in Hurley. The impressive growth of the Pack since its original charter four years ago was very obvious with more than 200 attending this function.

Guest speaker Dr. Clement Angstrom talked about fun in Scouting and the importance of parent cooperation. Other guests attending the dinner were Mr. and Mrs. Ted Macenka and Mr. and Mrs. Randall Kelder.

An interesting feature of the event was the Cub Scouts' kit contest. The boys had cleverly created projects out of discarded odds and ends, such as empty milk containers, juice cans, plastic lids, a box and — lots of imagination. First prize for his genius kit "Wheel of Fortune" was won by Jim Schlotzhauer, second prize went to George Dahir for his "Farm" and third prize was won by David Lavy for his "Little Train".

Scoutmaster Robert Fiore gave out achievement awards to the following Cub Scouts: Bob Fiore, Dan Gibbons, Paul Hakim, Greg Herd, Joseph Hill, Lance Holmquist and Michael Schoonmaker. George Dahir was presented with a dinner's cord. Two new Bobcats inducted were Daniel Cole and Ronald Whispell.

Webelos awards were earned by Tom Amato, Jeff Cole, Robert Gatton and Stephen Hakim. Cubs Lance Holmquist and Duane Marshall, having reached their 10th birthday, were transferred into the Webelos Den and welcomed by Webelos Leader Al Trowbridge. Committee Chairman Joseph Rossi was also presented with an award for his significant contribution in this capacity since the Pack's formation in 1960.

DiStasi Lists Highland Vols For Campaign

HIGHLAND
 Lewis DiStasi Jr., chairman of the Highland-Clintondale area sustaining membership enrollment of the Boy Scouts of America, has announced volunteer workers for the campaign.

The Highland-Clintondale drive is to assist the Rip Van Winkle Council raise a minimum of $35,000 for its operating costs for the current year.

Local volunteers named by DiStasi include as team captains Stephen DeMarc, Jerry Vurnfiedt, Jerome Hurd, Anthony M. Barraco and Ronald Naso. Each team captain will contact local businessmen and citizens interested in scouting, obtain their contributions and enroll the contributor as a sustaining member. Sustaining members receive information regularly on local scouting and the use of the facilities of Camp Tri-Mount at various times as available.

More than 6,000 boys and volunteer leaders take part in the scouting program of Rip Van Winkle Council each year and they need the financial support of the community, DiStasi stressed.

Volunteers wishing to take part in the program are asked to contact the chairman.

GS Troop 145 Court of Awards

LAKE KATRINE
 Girl Scout Troop 145, led by Mrs. Frank Mongillo, held its Court of Awards during a Parents Night program at Lake Katrine School.

Scouts re-dedicated themselves to the newly revised Girl Scout Promise and Law during a candlelight ceremony.

Other highlights included awarding of proficiency badges on the fields of arts and home and exhibits of craft work, sewing, puppets and wood carvings made by the girls for badge requirements.

Entertainment was provided by the scouts with group singing, story telling, puppet shows and instrumental music performances. Girls, working on their hospitality badges, served refreshments.

Mrs. Mongillo was assisted by Mrs. Ronald Costello and Mrs. John Kobland.

Troop 145 is sponsored by the Lake Katrine School Parents and Teachers Organization.

BOY SCOUT NEWS

Tillson Pack Holds Dinner

TILLSON
 Cub Scouts of Pack 17 in Tillson held their annual Blue and Gold dinner recently.

In addition to the regular Pack meeting, the dinner also served as a kickoff for the annual candy sale. Proceeds from the sale will be used to aid in financing pack activities.

Announcement was made that the Pack will go to Camp Tri-Mount for the period July 23-26. Reservations are to be made prior to the next Pack meeting set for March 30. A scout may go to Tri-Mount for one or all four days. Also scheduled is a roller skating party on March 24 from 1 to 3 p.m. Den Mothers have all the details.

Awards announced at the dinner went to the following: Todd Natale, Mark Janeczek, John Hicks, Allan Lane, Andrew DeGaut, Steven Slater, David Post, Bobby Merck, Eric Brown, Larry Yarter, Vern Carter, Jimmy Loughlin, Peter Fairbrother, Rodger Klindt, Rhett Butler, Larry Terwilliger and John Robb.

Trophies also were presented for the Pinewood Derby winners. First place den winners included Vern Carter, Clifford Artist, Steven Robb, Jimmi Grassi and Todd Natale. First place Pack winners were Larry Terwilliger, Rodger Klindt and John Robb.

Paltz Scouts At Aid Meet

NEW PALTZ
 Five teams of Scouts from the three Boy Scout Troops in New Paltz were among those which recently competed in the Minewaska Trail District First Aid Meet, held recently at the New Paltz High School.

Approximately 20 teams competed against each other in properly treating accident victims.

The junior and senior teams from Troop 172 both won third place in the competition. Dana Lyons and Bill Hoberrecht were the team captains for the competition.

Medical Associates of New Paltz sponsored the event this year, and provided contest medals to the winners.

THE LARGEST ETHAN ALLEN DEALER IN THE MID HUDSON VALLEY

The Gossip Column by Robin Adams Sloan

Q: Does Jackie Onassis still do as much shopping for clothes as she used to? — T. Y., Akron, Ohio.

A: When she's in New York, Jackie is a familiar figure in the boutiques on Madison Avenue. One trait well known to the shopowners and not to the public is that Mrs. Onassis has a dreadful time trying to make up her mind. This is so embarrassing to her that often, if the shop is crowded, the salesgirl will let her take merchandise into the backroom where she can deliberate for as much time as she needs. Another trick Jackie has is to take dozens of items home to deliberate over. We hear she doesn't let the rejects pile up around the apartment but has them returned immediately in a small, rented truck.

Q: Well, are they lovers or aren't they? I mean Sarah Miles and Burt Reynolds, who have been involved with that suicide of her manager in Arizona? — G.E., Ft. Worth, Tex.

A: Believable information from behind the scenes is that Burt gallantly came to the lady's rescue after her quarrel with manager David Whiting, who later committed suicide in Sarah's motel room, but they kept all their clothes on and Burt says he was merely being chivalrous. He has told Dinah Shore that the whole thing was innocent. We believe him: Burt's never hidden anything.

Q: The cast of "All in the Family" seems to work well together. Is it one big happy all-in-the-family on and off the set? — E.R., Naples, Fla.

A: No—it's tension city with lots of squabbling. The four major players are unhappy and dissatisfied. Carroll O'Connor is fed up to here with Archie Bunker and says he wants to quit. Jean Stapleton says the show is causing her to behave "like a dingbat" in private life. Rob Reiner can't stand being called "Meathead" on the street. And Sally Struthers years to be a serious film actress. CBS will be hard pressed to keep "All in the Family" from becoming "Out of the Family."

QUESTION YOU NEVER

ASKED: Latest in the word about this. It is up to its old protective cloak of director secrecy around politicians' top-notch 24-year-family irregularities. After all, Tony Richardson and the daughter of the former leader, Jo Grimond IS a liberal!

A: Weinberger's fast shuttle back and forth from Washington to San Clemente cost between $600 and $625 an hour for Jetstar use. The total was in the neighborhood of $5,000 round pay phone without putting in any coins and a black box that enables you to receive phone anything more about those little calls from anywhere at no cost by amateur to the caller. Worse yet — an underground youth group is making long-distance calls for free. I guess selling plans for all three boxes. Negative Attitude On Draft WASHINGTON (AP) — war or the military establishment of Defense to study Young America's opinion of lishment." By last summer there was attitudes ... held by American military service inched upward last year, but nearly 60 per cent of civilian young men still held a negative attitude, says a survey for the Pentagon's manpower office.

The reasons given for not enlisting shifted as the draft approached zero in 1972 and the United States disengaged from the Vietnam war.

In two previous surveys in 1971, the report said, "the principal reason cited for not enlisting was antagonism toward systematic effort by the Department of Defense to study the enlistment motivation and attitudes ... held by American youth."

"Increased emphasis accorded Military manpower officials say they need such guides to help shape programs aimed at attracting enough young men to fill the ranks of the armed services in this new era of an all volunteer, draft-free force."

The surveys are conducted by a private research firm using interviewers from the same age group as those interviewed: young high school, college and noncollege men drawn from what is called "a national probability sample of youth."

U.S. Hikes Security Abroad

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is stepping up the arms and manpower used to protect its diplomats abroad, with little confidence that the current "epidemic" is finally subsiding.

"We don't see the end as of now," said one official of the wave of threats and violence to U.S. ambassadors and their staffs in foreign capitals.

But, another official said, "we're working to make it as tough as possible for the terrorist. In some places he knows he's likely to run into quite a lot of lead."

In the last five years 12 Americans have been murdered and another 12 wounded in 21 incidents. "This is not just a problem with the Black September," a Palestinian terrorist organization, the official added. "It's a tactic adopted and used in many places of the world by dissident groups."

The new precautions, taken after consultation with the Central Intelligence Agency, the Secret Service and the FBI, include more bodyguards, bullet-proof vehicles and security locks, although officials are reluctant to discuss explicit details that could alert terrorists.

Until recently, the objective was to assign top priority to protecting the top man, the ambassador himself, and especially in countries the State Department considers high-risk areas.

Now, security is being stepped up in "lower-risk" countries. The kidnapping in Haiti in January of Ambassador Clinton Knox and Ward Christensen, his consul, points up the need for this expansion, one official said.

Officials believe it is too early to tell whether the additional measures will pay off.

Veterans Hospitals Rapped

WASHINGTON (AP) — Thousands of ailing patients suffer from a dangerous lack of care in the nation's Veterans Administration hospitals and sometimes are dismissed in worse shape than when they were admitted, says a secret investigative report prepared for a House committee.

It alleges that the Veterans Administration has attempted to conceal hospital conditions by distorting records and by falsifying the true number of beds available for patients.

The Nixon administration, through its proposed 1974 VA budget, will cause conditions to deteriorate and may even be moving to shut down hospitals, the report said.

The study was prepared by the staff of a House Appropriations subcommittee, which is in the midst of hearings on the VA budget. The subcommittee has refused to release the 41-page report until the VA has an opportunity to reply to it, but a copy was obtained by The Associated Press.

The committee investigators said they based their conclusions on interviews with VA personnel in Washington and officials of 14 hospitals in Virginia, Ohio, Florida, California and Massachusetts.

The report said the hospitals don't have enough nurses to provide even a safe level of care and fall far short of the number needed for the best medical treatment.

"Many essential nursing procedures either are not performed or are not done properly, not withstanding the dedication and efforts of nursing staffs to maintain an adequate level of performance," the report said.

The investigators quoted one nursing supervisor, who was not identified, as saying she had seen "a patient permanently disabled because this nursing care was not provided and wondered how many such patients in VA hospitals were crippled or died because of the lack of nursing attention."

The VA, in answering critics of hospital conditions, has pointed to an improvement in the staff-patient ratio as an indicator of bettering conditions.

But the committee study disputed the validity of that measurement.

Although the number of employees per patient rose from 1.17 in fiscal 1968 to 1.46 in fiscal 1972, that "does not mean that many more employees became involved in actually taking care of patients," the investigators observed.

The VA also was accused of falsifying records of the number of beds available for patients.

As of last Dec. 31, the VA was listing 98,297 beds in its 168 hospitals.

But the report said, "The operating beds reported by VA hospitals are not all in active service and available for use, and in some instances do not even exist."

"In many instances, the reported operating bed capacity has included ward units closed down for construction and not reopened for several months," it said.

The report is in the hands of subcommittee members, and several of them questioned VA Administrator Donald E. Johnson about parts of it during the hearings Monday and Tuesday.

Johnson has promised a detailed response after his staff studies it, but disputed the allegations he was questioned about.

Taxpayers . . . $188 Thousand a Year for Each Congressman

WASHINGTON (AP) — It costs taxpayers an average of $188,000 a year to keep a representative in Washington and pay for his office staff. Senators come somewhat higher, about $30,000 each. Those basic costs include the $42,500 annual salary of each of the 100 senators and 438 representatives and delegates, plus staff payrolls. Each House member is allowed about $165,000 per year to pay up to 16 employees in his Washington and district offices. A senator's clerical allowance varies according to the size of his state, ranging from $327,000 to $586,000 per year, with no ceiling on the number of employees but a top on the salary of his No. 1 staffer. Currently the top is $35,900 for the Senate and about $32,600 for the House. Not all members use their total allowance. The unused portion reverts to the Treasury. Neither do all members use all of the allowances for fringe benefits, which are not included in the average cost of keeping up a congressional office. Basic costs in the legislative appropriation bill enacted last year included $62 million for salaries of House members' official correspondence. The estimated cost for fiscal year 1973 was $21.2 million for both branches. Stationery allowances of $4,250 per year per member for the purchase of office supplies at reduced rates. Not all members use this allowance. Some draw it in cash. Telephone and telegraph allowances amounting to the equivalent of 40,000 minutes of long distance talking or 160,000 words of telegrams for every two years, plus unlimited long distance calls in evening hours and all day on weekends, on leased government lines for representatives. The long-distance allowance is the same for all members, whether they live in Virginia or California. —Travel allowances of 18 round trips home per session for House members and 45 for senators. This is in addition to foreign travel available to most members for official business, and for trips to home states or districts for staffers.

GEORGE J. BOBKO JR.

Air Force News of Area Men

Airman George J. Bobko Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. George J. Bobko of 147 Smith Avenue, has been assigned to Lowry Air Force Base in Colorado after completing Air Force training. Airman Bobko, a 1972 graduate of Kingston High School, has been assigned to Lowry for specialized training in the munitions and weapons maintenance field.

Michael A. Corrado, son of Mr. and Mrs. Angelo J. Corrado of 27 Shufeldt Street, has been promoted to sergeant in the U.S. Air Force. Sgt. Corrado, a maintenance analysis specialist at Ramstein Air Force Base in Germany, is a 1970 graduate of Kingston High School. He entered the Air Force in March 1971.

Paul J. Werner, son of Louis P. Werner of 135 Grand Street, Highland, has reenlisted in the U.S. Air Force at Minot AFB in North Dakota. S/Sgt. Werner, a 1959 graduate of Highland High School, has completed 16 years of military service, including six months of duty in Vietnam. His wife, Susan, is the daughter of Mrs. Marge Schaffer of Tucson, Ariz.

Bertram W. Quick Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Bertram W. Quick Sr. of 42 Russell Street, Saugerties, has arrived for duty at Brooks Air Force Base in Texas. Airman Quick, a 1971 graduate of Saugerties High School, previously served at Eglin Air Force Base in Florida.

Jeffrey C. Paul, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Fisher of Brockton, Mass., has received the Lockheed Aircraft Co. pin signifying 1,000 flying hours as a crew member on Lockheed-built C-141 Starlifter aircraft. Captain Paul, a pilot with the 30th Military Airlift Squadron at McGuire Air Force Base in New Jersey, is married to Eileen Budny, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Budny of 95 Amsterdam Avenue.

Claude A. Stone, son of Mr. and Mrs. Claude J. Stone of 375 Springtown Road, New Paltz, has been promoted to airman first class. A 1971 graduate of New Paltz High School, he entered the air force in January of 1972 and completed basic training at Lackland Air Force Base in Texas. He was then assigned to Sheppard Air Base where he attended schools for Civil Engineering in the structural pavement field. Airman Stone in June of 1972 was transferred to Kadena Air Base in Okinawa where he is currently spending 18 months with the Pacific Air Force. Kadena is the headquarters for air operations in Southeast Asia, the Far East and the Pacific area.

Cadet Frederick C. Dunn Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick C. Dunn of Florence Street, has been named to the Commandant's List at the U.S. Air Force Academy. Cadet Dunn, a member of the Class of 1974, was selected for his outstanding military performance. Cadet Dunn, a 1970 graduate of Kingston High School, will be commissioned a second lieutenant and awarded a BS degree upon graduation from the Academy.

S/Sgt David R. Valk, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry P. Valk of Route 1, Saugerties, is a member of the unit which established the primary radio communication link between Hanoi and Clark Air Force Base in the Philippines — the joint reception center for returning prisoners of war. Sgt. Valk is an automotive repairman with the 1st Mobile Communications Group at Clark. His unit deployed a radio jeep and an operator to Hanoi's Gia Lam Airport to set up the arrangements. Sgt. Valk, a 1965 graduate of Saugerties High School, is married to the former Leonora Dimla.

Listen, Veteran

Tax Tip for Late Filing Veterans — Veterans benefits such as educational assistance payments, pension and compensation payments, GI Insurance dividends, federal grants to disabled veterans for wheelchair homes or specially equipped vehicles, burial allowances, etc. are not taxable and need not be included in your income tax return. However, interest earned on dividends from GI insurance left on deposit are taxable and should be included.

Fishing Your Hang Up? — If you are a resident New York State veteran with at least 40 per cent VA rated service-connected disabilities you may get yourself a free fishing license. Then head for your favorite fishing spot on the opening day of the trout season, April 1, and try your luck. There are others who may fish the State's waters without paying a fee. Servicemen, for instance, if you're a New York State serviceman stationed outside of the State you may fish without a license within the State provided you are on leave for no longer than 30 days and carry your official leave papers and service ID tags with you. Or, if you're a patient at a VA hospital within the State you, too, may fish without a license. All you need is your hospital leave papers and other proper identification. With this free fishing privilege, however, goes the responsibility of following the rules and regulations concerning when, where and what type of fish you catch, as well as the daily allowable catch. Want more information about it? Contact your local counseling center on the New York State Division of Veterans' Affairs. It's located at County Office Building, Kingston, N.Y. Office Hours: Monday through Friday — 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., telephone 331-9300 Ext. 287.

Many Careers In the Army's Air Defense

KINGSTON
Career opportunities in the U.S. Army's air defense and the field artillery were spelled out recently in a bulletin released by Lloyd D. Canfield, local Army recruiter.

SFC Canfield reports job openings are available for young men interested in learning the care and maintenance of the sophisticated electronic machines tied to the defense of the U.S.

Those who qualify, Canfield says, will attend an exhaustive training course at the Army's Air Defense School, Fort Bliss, Tex., for anywhere from nine to 40 weeks, depending on which missile system the student will be assigned.

"If you have finished high school and are having a hard time finding a challenge, today's Army wants to join you," Sgt. Canfield adds. He said career opportunities in the field artillery (missiles and rockets) can provide the challenge and responsibility young men may be looking for.

In this career field, Canfield notes, enlisted personnel will receive eight weeks of training at the U.S. Army Artillery and Missile School at Fort Sill, Okla. For those who qualify, two schools are available — Sergeant Missile Crewman and Pershing Missile Crewman.

The local army recruiter has all the details at his office, Broadway and Maiden Lane.

Rhinebeck Residents Among 'Without Walls' Graduates

By TIM SCHUSTER

ANNANDALE-ON-HUDSON — Two Rhinebeck residents are among those University Without Walls seniors who will receive their B.A.'s May 26.

The Bard College program, designed to help adults in the Mid-Hudson area finish work toward bachelor of arts degrees, is now accepting applications for its new semester, opening April 7.

The independent studies program is set up to fit the individual who must work or has a family situation that precludes his completing college credits in the traditional "living on campus" manner.

The program was initiated on an experimental basis in the Fall of 1971, when 12 area residents were accepted. Now the UWW roster shows 24 enrolled, with three of those from the pilot group to receive diplomas at Bard's May 26 commencement, the college's first UWW graduates.

It is geared for adults over 23 years old who have at some time accumulated at least two years' college credits. The traditional schedule has been replaced by six-month semesters. The student and advisor meet at least once a month at a mutually convenient time.

Students are men and women with fulltime jobs; women who would usually be categorized as housewives; adults who couldn't finance college directly after high school; others who started college but left for one reason or another.

Mrs. Charles F. Pickhardt Jr., Mt. Rutsen Road, Rhinebeck, is the student member of the UWW committee. She had studied for two years at Pembroke College, part of Brown University in Rhode Island. Her family includes her husband and four children.

She has managed to do her studying at home. The hardest part of her work, as she describes it, was preparation for a course she developed and taught last fall at Rhinebeck High School, a class in introductory psychology.

She noted that UWW allows "a kind freedom in terms of time, which also makes it very tough. It's easy to put off work. One must enter the program realistically."

She would like to continue her work in psychology and get her master's degree in that field; beyond that, her plans are directed toward work in the learning disabilities field.

Mrs. Kevan Karl, 3 Manor Road, Rhinebeck, will also receive her B.A. in May. Her husband is with IBM in Kingston, and she has two daughters in school.

Mrs. Karl had studied voice at the Juilliard School of Music. After a 13 year absence from another area college when problems in the college work she enrolled a friend mentioned the new Night courses at Dutchess Bard program. She says "it sounded too good to be true."

Other programs in the area UWW meant a return to music Jane White, 15 Livingston Street, Rhinebeck; Mrs. Neil R. Mansfield of Rhinebeck; Mrs. Peter Amato, Woods Road, Pine Plains; and Mrs. Hollis Seamor in the UWW program are Betty of Hudson.

MRS. CHARLES PICKHARDT AND MRS. KEVAN KARL: COLLEGE STUDENTS

Panel Discussion Is Scheduled

POUGHKEEPSIE — A panel discussing "Organization Development: Changing Social Systems" will be presented March 29 at a meeting of the Mid-Hudson Psychological Association. The meeting, to begin at 8:30 p.m. at Champlain Hall, E. Plant Jr., management Marist College, will deal with organization development as a new discipline concerned with the application of behavioral science methods in changing and improving social systems.

The program will focus upon the role of the behavioral scientist as a social change agent within three types of settings: a community agency; a hospital; and an industrial firm.

Panelists are Dr. Albert Newman, consulting community psychologist, Poughkeepsie Model Cities Agency; Dr. Ralph E. Plant Jr., management development consultant, Vassar Brothers Hospital; and Dr. James C. Tension, personnel research psychologist, IBM Corporation.

The two panel moderators are Dr. Henry A. Schwartz and Dr. Jacob Steingart, both of IBM Corporation.

Spectacular Is Planned

RHINEBECK — It is felt that these give students with varying talents in different fields an opportunity to show their accomplishments. An "all high school spectacular" has been scheduled for March 29 at Rhinebeck High School for both parents and community.

Various members of the student body of the high school and junior high school will participate in the evening's events by exhibiting and displaying their particular accomplishments this year.

Some examples are viewing the new computer terminal in action; learning first hand from the Language Department of the trip abroad planned for this Spring; sampling the culinary talents of the Home Economics Department; watching the trained high school gymnasts and dance groups in action; observing students in the BOCES Occupation Program working on motors and creating hairdos.

Sponsoring the evening are the school and the Rhinebeck PTA.

A recent evening featuring elementary school children and members of the high school psychology class found numerous student participants and was deemed a success by the Rhinebeck Board of Education.

City Democratic Committee Meets Tonight

Dr. Gorman to Nominate Koenig, Gallo

KINGSTON—Koenig and T. Robert Gallo for reelection to head the County Legislature. Dr. Gerald P. Gorman, as he did two years ago, will nominate Francis R. City Chairman Lawrence E.

Woerner said that the City Democratic Committee will convene at 7 p.m. tonight in the Common Council Chambers at city hall to nominate a full Hubert A. Richter, a two-term city judge, will be nominated for his third term.

All Democratic incumbents for legislature and the Common Council are up for reelection. The legislature ticket will be headed by Gorman, the top vote-getter in 1971 and will include incumbents James Carroll, James Gilpatrick and Lawrence Kithcart.

The aldermanic lineup includes incumbents John F. Coffey in the new First Ward, Joseph R. McGrane in the Second, Clarence Stoutenburg in the Fourth, John E. Finch in the Fifth, Donald E. Quick in the Sixth, Emilio A. Primo in the Eighth, Clifford G. Sinbaugh in the Ninth, Daniel F. Smith in the 10th and Peter J. Mancuso in the 11th.

There are two "vacancies" on the legislative ticket; one will be filled by Eugene P. Perry who ran unsuccessfully in an incumbent Republican, Thomas

C. Kapreilian last year. Chairman Woerner says a decision has not been reached yet on the "sixth man" in the legislative lineup. Several names have been mentioned, including Joseph Koenig, the mayor's brother, Joseph Epstein, former alderman and former election commissioner and Jack Shienbold, a city water commissioner.

The two ward "vacancies" in the new Third Ward and in the new Seventh, are expected to be filled with the respective nominations of Paul Mills and James Howard. Mills ran for alderman in the Third Ward two years ago, losing to the incumbent Republican Brian D. Smith. Howard, a former majority leader of the Council, chose not to run for reelection from the old Third (prior to 1968 reapportionment) in 1967. Howard, if he runs, will face ESOPUS DEMOS SPEAKER — Glenn C. Van Bramer, former legislative assistant to the late Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick and chairman of both the City of Poughkeepsie and Dutchess County Democratic Committees, will be the featured speaker at the annual Town of Esopus Democratic dinner. The dinner will be held Saturday, March 31, at the Capri Restaurant in Port Ewen.

Norton's Try for Designation Fails

KINGSTON—Edward M. Norton, a former majority leader of the Common Council and once chairman of its most powerful committees, apparently reached the end of the political trail Tuesday night when Democrats caucusing in his home 11th ward nominated Daniel F. Smith of 114 Hunter Street to run for alderman this year.

Norton made an attempt at the nomination, going head to head with former alderman and county legislator William (Pucker) Davis, but as the vote mounted against him, Norton withdrew and threw his support to Smith, a former supervisor from the old Seventh Ward. Norton's nomination of Smith broke the deadlock and Smith went on to defeat Davis, 27-24 for the nomination to run in the new 10th Ward.

Norton is one of two senior aldermen in the Council, he and Peter J. Mancuso first winning election in 1963. He was elected majority leader of the Council in 1967 and again in 1969. Norton headed the powerful Laws and Rules Committee of the Council from 1966 to 1968 and was head of the Finance, Ways and Means Committee in 1970 and 1971. Norton was defeated for the post of majority leader by Mancuso in 1971. A Democratic Committeeman for many years in the old Seventh Ward, Norton first sought public office in 1957 on the Economy Party ticket, losing to Democrat Frank C. Sasso.

Norton, in throwing his support to Smith, said that Smith "would be a fine representative for the people of the new 10th Ward." He was not as kind in his remarks about Davis. He said that Davis

Conservatives Pick Their Own

KINGSTON—City Conservatives were expected to endorse the Republican candidates for mayor, William B. Merrill Jr., and for alderman-at-large, Burt A. Ellis, which they did Tuesday night. They were also expected to endorse a number of major party candidates for legislature from the city. They didn't.

Instead of endorsing major party candidates for legislature, the Conservatives nominated two of "their own": Harry Ney, and Bernard Singer, party chairman, who ran for mayor in 1969 and alderman-at-large in 1971.

Lawrence Kithcart, who had Conservative support in 1971, probably summed up the feelings of the other hopefuls, considering the circumstances, when he got the news. "At least they didn't nominate anyone else," said the Democrat, who will be nominated for reelection for city judge.

Schermerhorn May Oppose Senator Javits

NEWBURGH, N.Y. (UPI)—State Sen. Richard E. Schermerhorn, a Newburgh insurance company executive, said Tuesday he was considering running against U.S. Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., if the latter seeks reelection next year.

Schermerhorn said his candidacy would depend upon family and financial consideration. He also said he hoped a "viable" candidate, other than himself, would come forth to oppose Javits and specifically mentioned Rep. Jack Kemp of Buffalo.

Schermerhorn said he would not run in a Republican primary against Kemp. However, Schermerhorn, who has had Conservative party backing in the past, said that if he lost a GOP primary to Javits, he would still run on the Conservative line against the senator.

Schermerhorn said he had been urged to make the race.

Assembly Passes Bell Bill, Aid for Hurricane Victims

The Assembly has passed a measure sponsored by Assemblyman H. Clark Bell of Woodstock which would help alleviate financial losses suffered by victims of Hurricane Agnes in Ulster County and 25 other counties throughout the state.

The bill would provide an additional one per cent investment credit for qualified property destroyed or damaged by the flood in amounts proportionate to the loss.

"This bill is intended to stimulate new capital investment in the flood-damaged areas," Bell said. "It provides taxpayers with an incentive to restore or redevelop capital facilities. The credit would be limited to investments made within three years of the June, 1972 flood and would apply only to capital investments within the 26-county disaster area and only to replace or restore flood-damaged properties."

For purpose of computing the credit, Bell said, the aggregate cost for all taxable years could not exceed 120 per cent of the fair market value of the prop-

Port Ewen Fire Chief Lists Report

PORT EWEN did standby duty at their own firehouse three times during the year, according to a yearly summary compiled by Chief Clark Mains. Two firemen, Dan Ogden and Myron Lane Sr., suffered injuries during the year, with Ogden needing seven stitches in his lip and Lane seven stitches in his head. Training included the Essentials of Firemanship 12-week course, 14 company drills, and a fire drill and inspection of the Port Ewen School, Mains reported.

Another 13 calls answered were false alarms, including six classified as "malicious," Mains said.

Port Ewen firemen furnished mutual aid on two occasions to Connelly firemen during the year, with another response to Esopus and one to Kingston. Port Ewen firemen received mutual aid assistance on two occasions, with St. Remy, Ulster Hose Co. No. 5, Connelly and Esopus furnishing assistance at a fatal truck fire at a railroad crossing on Feb. 1, and Esopus responding with a standby crew during a fire at a Broadway laundromat in June. In addition, Port Ewen firemen

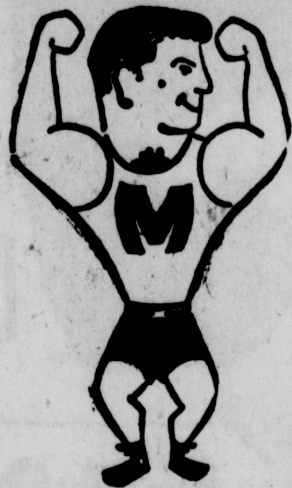

Former Commissioner Honored

Past Port Ewen Fire District commissioner Harry Van Ormer was honored recently at a testimonial dinner presented by the Port Ewen Fire Department at the fire house.

Van Ormer served as fire commissioner for 25 years. Although retired as a commissioner, he continues to hold the office of financial secretary and is still an active member of the company.

Commending Van Ormer on his services were Roger Mable and past chiefs Ed Mains and Wes Clark. Gifts were presented by company president Frank Chaffee and fire commission chairman Bill Webster. Chief Clark Mains served as master of ceremonies.

The Rev. Dan Ogden, who recently transferred to Long Island, was presented with a plaque in honor of his services both as an active fireman and company chaplain since 1968.

Panel Discussion Set On Drug Legislation

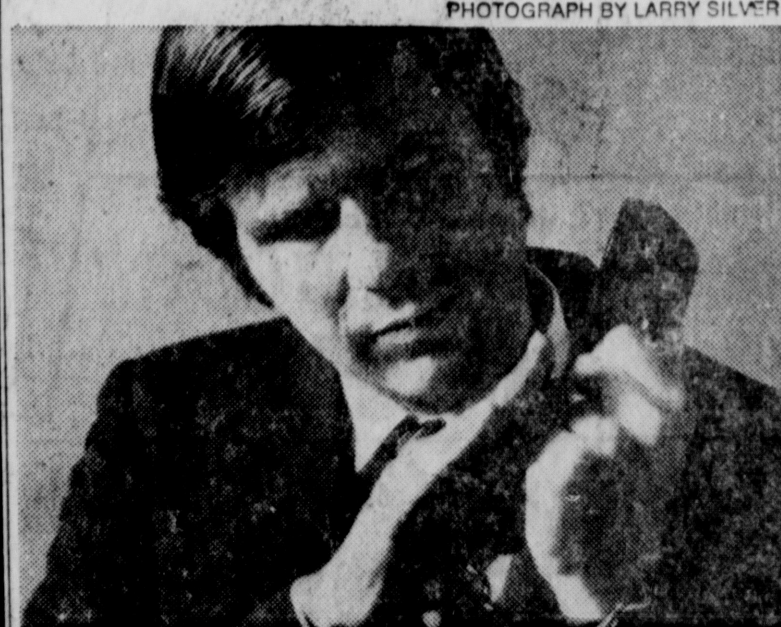

WOODSTOCK, N.Y., March 28 (UPI)—Assemblyman H. Clark Bell has been heard in Albany concerning the proposals. D. A. Vogt will present the proposals which the New York State Association of District Attorneys is recommending. Other panel members include Dr. Edmund Reppert, chairman of the Ulster County Drug Commission; attorney Richard J. Goldman of the firm of Ricken and Goldman; and David Abel, a member of the Woodstock Narcotics Guidance Council and mandatory life imprisonment of hard drug pushers and for persons who commit violent crimes while under the influence of such drugs. Woodstock Narcotics Guidance Council, will serve as moderator. Interested area residents are urged to attend the meeting.

Ellenville Seeking Manager

ELLENVILLE, N.Y., March 28 (UPI)—Following last week's vote in the Ellenville Village elections to retain the village manager form of government, the Village Board will again advertise for a man to fill the post. One application for the post was received at Monday night's Village Board meeting from David Kramer, who was defeated last week in a bid for the position of mayor. Incumbent Republican Robert Dowling beat the Democratic hopeful 806 votes to 736. In other action, the board voted to establish a traffic violation bureau in the Village Clerk's office following a public hearing on the proposal. Traffic fines, which were in the past collected by the police department, will now be collected by the Village Clerk. The regularly scheduled April 16 meeting has been moved to April 18, when public hearings are scheduled on the village budget and on a proposed zoning change in the Spring Street area where a proposal is under consideration for a high rise apartment. The week of April 9 was designated as clean up week in the village. A pick up schedule will be posted before that date. At the meeting Mayor Dowling thanked outgoing Trustees Dr. Michael Tannenbaum and Walter Grey for their years of service.

Is spiritual schizophrenia a business disease?

You see it often enough: one code for the conduct of personal affairs, a quite different one applied in business and governmental matters. The belief seems to prevail that we are less responsible as individuals when we make "business" decisions, that business has a different code. Not so. Neither the business nor the cause changes the priority of values. We are born to the community of man first; the others are secondary allegiances. Make your individual morality work where you work.

The community of man . . . God's club. It's not exclusive. It includes you and me.

PLANNING CANCER CRUSADE — Several of the key personnel in the 1973 Cancer Crusade gather to discuss plans for the April campaign, which has a goal this year of $78,100. Shown (L-R) are John F. Burns, industrial chairman; Dr.

Harri H. Janssen, president of the Ulster County Unit of the American Cancer Society; Robert C. Randall, general township coordinator and Dr. Henry P. Jacobs, dental division chairman.

Mid-Hudson Area Biologists To Hear Research Scientist

STONE RIDGE University, who has a theory that schizophrenia is due to a basic allergy to a section of one's own brain and therefore antigens are found in the blood of such persons.

His research interests over the years have had to do with the biochemical cause-effect of abnormal behavior patterns and he was among the early investigators to use LSD as an experimental drug because its effects on the subject approximated the symptoms of "temporary schizophrenia."

He has collaborated with many other medically oriented research groups at Worcester Mental Health Center, Blood Research Institute, Clark University, Tulane University and Wayne State University.

After graduating from Colgate University, Dr. Bergen served in the Army. After his discharge he started his graduate work at the University of Vermont where he received his M.S. Degree.

He went to the Worcester Foundation in 1948 to work with Dr. Hudson Hoagland and used his research toward his thesis for his Ph.D. Degree in Physiology at Tufts University. The research was on the effect of the adrenal cortex hormones on brain function as measured by brain waves.

Dr. John R. Bergen, currently doing research on possible biochemical factors that may relate to schizophrenia, will speak at the Spring meeting of the Mid-Hudson Biologists scheduled at 8:30 p.m. on Thursday, April 12, at the Stone Ridge campus of Ulster County Community College.

The talk, slated for the John Quimby Auditorium in Vanderlyn Hall, is open to the public.

Dr. Bergen and Roger Beaulieu, as Associate Professor of Biology at UCCC, co-authored several papers during the early mid 60's.

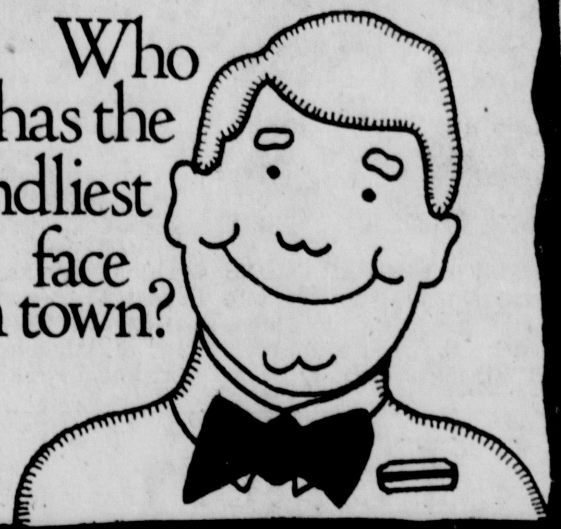

Dr. Bergen is a senior scientist at Worcester Foundation and also is a Visiting scientist at the New England Regional Primate Research Center at Southboro.

Currently Dr. Bergen is trying to test the hypothesis of Dr. Robert Heath, of Tulane

Field Trip

Members of the John Burroughs Natural History Society will conduct a field trip at the Ashokan Reservoir Saturday, March 31. Anyone wishing to join in the observation of waterfowl and land birds in the area may join the group 9 a.m. at the Aeration Basin of the reservoir. Fred Hough of Accord, naturalist and member of the research and records committee of the Burroughs Society will lead the trip. The next field trip of the society will be April 29 in the High Falls area for a walk along the D&H Canal. Details will be announced.

'Y' Representative Completes Training

KINGSTON James Lapak, representing the Kingston YMCA recently completed intensive training in the YMCA - Fitness Finders system of health and fitness at the New York City area YMCA. Lapak will be leading Y-Fitness Finders classes in the Kingston area in the near future.

Developed through the combined resources of the YMCA and Rodale Press, Inc., Y-Fitness Finders is a community-oriented exercise program in which families, neighbors and friends get together in their own neighborhoods for weekly fitness fun. The Fitness Finders Program, some 300 of which are currently being conducted across the country, centers around a 35-minute session of continuous rhythmic exercise. This up-tempo session is comprised of a sequence of activities found by national fitness authorities how to eat for health and fitness. The Fitness Finder is improvement of circulation, respiratory strength and endurance.

Supplementing the exercises are fitness games and stunts, personal fitness tests and evaluations, and brief lectures covering a wide variety of health topics. Besides learning

'Pattern' Appointment Made

POUGHKEEPSIE and he will be a distinct asset to our regional program." Dr. A. Scott Warthin Jr., professor emeritus of geology at Vassar College, has been appointed to the board of Mid-Hudson Pattern for Progress, it has been announced by Howard C. St. John, board chairman.

Dr. Warthin will be replacing former State Senator R. Watson Pomeroy, who has stepped down from his post with the 45-member body for health reasons.

"Dr. Warthin," St. John said, "has extensive knowledge of the geology and general environment of the Mid-Hudson, and he will be a distinct asset to our regional program."

Pattern, a private, non-profit, regional planning research and development corporation, was organized in 1966 to help guide the orderly growth of the seven Mid-Hudson counties — Columbia, Dutchess, Greene, Orange, Putnam Sullivan and Ulster.

Dr. Warthin, who retired from Vassar College in 1969 after 40 years on the faculty, holds an undergraduate degree from the University of Michigan, and a Ph.D. from Columbia University.

In the summer of 1961 he directed the first six-week summer institute in earth science at Vassar, sponsored by the National Science Foundation.

In addition to teaching, Dr. Warthin has been active in the local community, serving as director of the Dutchess County Civil Defense and as an associate state deputy director of Civil Defense. He also served as chairman of the Dutchess County Water Conservation Committee and the county Flood Forecast Committee. From 1947 to 1953, Dr.

Warthin was editor of the Journal of Paleontology, and in 1955 was the first president of the Paleontological Society to be elected from a liberal arts college. For four years, he was a trustee of the Eastern New York Chapter of Nature Conservancy. In 1953, he served as president of the eastern section of the Association of Geology Teachers. Since 1968, he has been president of the Hudson River Conservation Society. Dr. Warthin is currently engaged in geological and conservation work in the Mid-Hudson Valley.

'The Crucible'...Ambitious Undertaking

By JON POWERS

STONE RIDGE
"The Crucible." Arthur Miller's powerful drama of the infamous 17th century witch hunts in Salem, Mass., is an ambitious undertaking for any theatre group. The New Theatre Program at Ulster County Community College certainly deserves credit for trying. The play opened Friday night at the Quimby Auditorium on the Stone Ridge campus. And, with the exception of several incredibly weak individual performances, and what surely must pass as an acute case of "opening night jitters," it succeeded.

But Arthur Miller deserves most of the credit. Perhaps his most controversial play, "The Crucible" was a thinly veiled attempt to dissect the hysteria of McCarthyism. It is both complex and coherent; an effective drama and moving tragedy that approached the success and acclaim of Miller's most famous work — "Death of a Salesman."

But even with all this, "The Crucible" either succeeds or fails on the performance of protagonist John Proctor, a man torn between the threat of death and a conviction that the Salem witchery was little more than contrived hysteria.

Played — fitfully, at times — by Jeffrey Gropuss, Proctor doesn't reach the full impact of his role in this performance until the second Act, when he has a brief but beautifully moving rendezvous with the treacherous Abigail Williams.

In the beginning, Gropuss stumbled and fumbled his way through Proctor's development as hero, delivering his lines with an apparent abandon that must be ascribed to nervousness. He settled down after the intermission, and it was his powerful and complete performance throughout the second act that helped save the play from total disaster.

The young, beautiful, sensuous, vain, murderer and thief Abigail Williams was played to perfection by Co. Schaffer. Once John Proctor's lover, a 17-year-old Abigail eventually implicates many of Salem's most respected citizens in witchcraft, but ironically escapes the persecution that her false confession brings on the others.

Miss Schaffer was, without a doubt, the brightest spot on the UCC stage Friday night. The young and talented actress changed image and moods on stage like a chameleon: from wide-eyed and innocent servant girl to lustful and murderous schemer. Her performance was virtually flawless.

Just as important to the development of "The Crucible" is Elizabeth Proctor, John's physically weak but morally strong wife. That part was admirably played by Patricia Czaraki, who offered the perfect contrast to tempestuous Abigail. The character of Elizabeth Proctor may be the most sensitive and subtle in the entire play — and certainly the most difficult.

There were other fine performances Friday night: particularly Ray Passer in the role of Rev. Samuel Parris, a thoroughly disagreeable clergyman more concerned with his own pulp than his with-ery-afflicted daughter, and Judi Robinson as the black and sassy Barbados slave-girl Tituba, who brought some priceless and entertaining 20th Century "jive" to otherwise staid Salem. And Kenn Cranna's portrayal of Deputy Governor Danforth was commendable.

But most of the secondary characters in this staging of "The Crucible" were stilted and lifeless, and hard-pressed to speak intelligibly or on cue. As a result, the play proceeded through a succession of peaks and valleys. It wilted in the early going with the shakey and discomfiting performances by Gropuss (as John Proctor) and George Young (as Rev. John Hale); was revived time and again by Miss Schaffer, and then carried to a strong and moving climax with Proctor's defiant march to the gallows. And Miss Czaraki (as Elizabeth Proctor) served as a steady and professional influence throughout.

And all the performances, both good and bad, were made just a little better by the scenery and lighting that were especially effective in their simplicity and starkness.

Two more performances of "The Crucible" are scheduled: Thursday and Friday at 8:15 p.m. The cast has had a full week to iron out its rough spots, so a relatively good performance should be even better by then.

Fest Planned

HIGH FALLS
"Topper's Taste Fest," a wine and cheese tasting combined with the showing of a classic film, will take place at 8:30 p.m. Friday in the High Falls fire hall.

Preceding the wine and cheese tasting will be a showing of "Topper," a 1937 film starring Cary Grant, Constance Bennett and Roland Young. Taken from the extensive film library of Romeo Muller Jr., "Topper" was the first of seven similar films and later furnished the basis for a successful television series.

The taste fest is being sponsored by the High Falls Civic Association. Host is Kevin Zraly, who is a regional director of Les Amis du Vin, an instructor on wine history and production at the State University College at New Paltz, and sommelier, beverage manager, and bartender at the DePuy Canal House in High Falls.

A donation for admission can be made at the door or reservations can be made in advance at the Town Pantry in High Falls or through members of the Civic Association.

Contestants Rehearse for Miss Ulster Pageant

AT THE PIANO — Rehearsing for the upcoming Miss Ulster County Pageant on April 7 are (L-R) Siri Ann Costello, contestant; Lori Vaeth, accompanist; Dorothy May, contestant; and Janis Johnson O'Shaughnessy, Miss Ulster County of 1968. (Freeman photos by Haines)

Eleven area young ladies will compete in the Miss Ulster County Scholarship Pageant which is scheduled for Saturday, Apr. 7, at 8 p.m. in Saugerties High School Auditorium.

Contestants include: Jan VanLuvane, 8 Washington Avenue, Highland; Siri Ann Costello, 178 Hoyt Street, Port Ewen; Dawn Elizabeth Gade, 139 Washington Avenue, Saugerties; Christine Maria Johnson, 5 Jeffrey Court, Saugerties; Rhonda Lynn Reed, 6 Sterly Avenue, Saugerties.

Daryl Lynn Reilly, Route 1, Box 216, Kingston; Brenda Dale St. Paul, 45 Sylvester Street, Kingston; Frances Ilona Tomshaw, 64 Florence Street, Kingston; Cara Coniglio, Highland; Debra Jean Eberhard, Highland; Dorothy May, 412 Albany Avenue, Kingston.

Joseph Bosco, coach and production adviser, will serve as master of ceremonies. Lori Vaeth will be the accompanist.

This year's show promises to be the most ambitious production staged since the start of the local pageant 18 years ago. The show is being designed to depict the poise, grace and beauty of the contestants who are seeking the title of Miss Ulster County 1973 and a chance to participate in the Miss New York State Pageant at Olean in July. The state title carries with it a $1500 scholarship.

The winner of the local pageant will receive a $650 scholarship, first runner up $250, and second runner up $100. The winners will, in addition, receive silver loving cups and each contestant will receive a sterling silver charm bracelet.

Theme of the 1973 pageant is Spring Fantasy. Ted Corea is serving as stage director.

The pageant is being sponsored by Saugerties Jaycees. Reservations may be made by contacting Mrs. Lois Buchan, 5 Hemlock Court, Saugerties, or Joseph's Beauty Salon, Main Street, Saugerties.

Rebekahs Plan Busy Season

Upcoming dinners, socials and meetings were discussed at the March 20 meeting of Queen Ulster Rebekah Lodge No. 34. Noble Grand Josie Dederick presided.

Queen Ulster with the assistance of William H. Raymond, Lodge of Odd Fellows will sponsor a roast beef dinner in Odd Fellow Temple, Saugerties, on Saturday, Apr. 28. Servings will be at 5:30 and 6:30 p.m. Reservations may be made with Josie Dederick or Mary Kampa of Saugerties. The public is invited.

Past noble grands were reminded of the regular annual Rebekah District meeting to be held in Phoenixia on Saturday, Apr. 14, at 2 p.m., when a past noble grand will be recommended for the office of district deputy president for the ensuing year.

The Past Noble Grands Association meeting is slated for Saturday, Apr. 28, at Phoenixia. Supper will be served at 6:30 p.m. The meeting will take place afterwards.

An invitation was received from Agape Rebekah Lodge of Bearsville for their 50th anniversary celebration Wednesday, Apr. 18. All members of Queen Ulster who plan to attend should contact Noble Grand Josie Dederick by April 3.

The secretary read an article from Leona Moore, president of the International Association of Rebekah Assemblies. The noble grand appointed the following committees: Ruth Transom, Anna Minkler, vice grand and noble grand, visiting; Judith Martin and Ruby Miller, refreshments.

A bazaar sale is planned for the April 3 meeting. Members are requested to bring articles for the sale. Refreshments were served by Hannah Lewis and Blanche Dunn.

Will Wife's Belly Dancing Perk Up Husband?

DEAR ABBY: I went to my minister because I have been having marital problems with my husband. It had to do with lovemaking. (He wasn't doing any.) I'm 28, and he's 29.

The minister said he really didn't know all that much about the subject, but he suggested that I take some lessons in belly dancing so I could entertain my husband and maybe that would perk him up a little.

Do you know of any place in Asheville, N.C., that teaches belly dancing?

WILLING TO LEARN
DEAR WILLING: Not off-hand, but look up dance studios in your Yellow Pages, and inquire. (P.S. Ask the minister where HE got the idea.)

DEAR ABBY: If you have ever had this problem in your column, I must have missed it. It is one that several of us share.

We have a dear friend who talks too much. She is bright, attractive, and has many fine

Dear Abby

qualities, but her endless, detailed monologs are boring and exhausting.

Her husband is intelligent and articulate, but he doesn't get a chance to open his mouth because his wife always has the floor. If someone else is talking, she interrupts and proceeds to dominate the conversation.

She has always been a talker, but lately it's gotten to the point where our husbands don't care to spend an evening listening to her.

If you or any of your readers know how to reach a person with this fault, please tell us. Thank you, and please don't use my name.

NAME WITHHELD

DEAR NAME: The only effective way to reach a non-stop talker is via the direct route. One of her best friends should tell her privately, gently, but emphatically that she really should not talk so much, and give others a chance. And since you're the friend who wrote the letter, perhaps you're the one to tell her. It would be an act of kindness.

DEAR ABBY: I am writing to you because all the etiquette books dodge this question. Is it proper to tip the owner of a barbershop, or beauty parlor? I understand if you do, some owners are insulted.

I go regularly to a barbershop, where I tip the employee. However, from time to time, the owner of the shop cuts my hair himself. I know him personally, and know that he makes a good living from the shop, so I never tip him.

My wife tells me that she runs up against the same situation in her beauty shop where the owners sometimes do the work.

What is the correct procedure — if there is one?

PUZZLED IN PHOENIX

DEAR PUZZLED: Offer. If the owner is insulted, he will let you know it, in which case don't "insult" him again.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "C" IN FORT COLLINS, COLO.: Sometimes the easiest way "around" something is thru it. So quit looking for angles and DO IT!

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

For Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding," send $1 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069.

Easy on the Budget

No budget problems here! This big, old-fashioned casserole is filled to the brim with tender chunks of beef, vegetables and homemade biscuits that hint of dill. The star of the supper pie is a soul-satisfying gravy made from basic household staples — condensed soup and pure all-vegetable liquid gravy seasoning-browning sauce.

If the budget's tight, use leftovers. Either way, a delicious, economical meal regardless of season.

Six carrots, peeled and cut in chunks

Two and one-half to three cups cooked cubed beef

One can (one lb.) boiled onions, drained

One package (10 and one-half oz.) frozen peas, thawed

One can (one lb.) stewed tomatoes

One can condensed tomato soup

One tablespoon Gravy Master-liquid gravy seasoning-browning sauce

One recipe savory biscuits

Cook and drain carrots. Mix carrots, beef, onions and peas in a large casserole. Combine and heat stewed tomatoes, tomato soup and Gravy

Master. (If desired, thicken with one tablespoon corn starch dissolved in two tablespoons water.)

Pour sauce over meat and vegetables in casserole. Mix in.

Prepare dough as directed for Savory Biscuits and cut into two inch rounds. Overlap biscuits in ring around edge of casserole. Bake in a hot oven, 400 degrees, 30 to 35 minutes, until biscuits brown and casserole bubbles.

Makes six servings. Serve with "extra" gravy if desired.

Savory Biscuits

Two cups flour
One teaspoon salt
One-half teaspoon sugar
Three teaspoons baking powder

One-fourth teaspoon each dry mustard, poultry seasoning and dill weed
Seven tablespoons shortening

About three-quarters cup milk

Sift or mix dry ingredients together. Cut in shortening. Add milk and stir with a fork until all ingredients are moistened. If necessary, add a little more milk. Turn out on a floured board and knead 10 times. Lightly roll, fold over and roll again. Cut biscuits and use as directed in recipe.

"EXTRA" GRAVY FOR LUMBERJACK BEEF AND BISCUITS

Combine one can condensed tomato soup, one teaspoon Gravy Master, one-half cup water, broth, milk, or other liquid and one medium onion finely chopped. Bring to a boil, then reduce heat and simmer four or five minutes. Strain before serving.

THIS HEARTY OLD FASHIONED CASSEROLE of beef, vegetables and homemade biscuits owes its soul satisfying flavor to condensed soup and pure all-vegetable gravy seasoning-browning sauce. Easy on the taste.

Lefooters Club to Have Guest Caller

The Lefooters Square Dance Club will feature guest caller Buzz Chapman at their Friday night dance. The dance starts at 8 p.m. at the Hurley Reformed Church, off Route 209.

Buzz Chapman began his square dance calling career while still in his teens and has been calling for 10 years. He calls regularly for a number of square dance clubs including one as far away as Portland. Buzz has served as chairman of the Springfield (Mass.) Area Callers of the New England Council of Callers Associations which represents more than 500 callers in the New England area. He also served as program chairman for the successful 1971 New England Square Dance Convention held in Springfield, Mass.

Buzz, his wife, Cindy, and their two sons live in Florence, Mass., where he is the Western New England District Supervisor for the M & M Mars Candy Company. Buzz has called for the Lefooters on several previous occasions and club members are looking forward to welcoming him once again. All club level dancers are invited to attend this dance.

New Members Welcomed to Rosary Society

Mrs. Louis Misasi presided at the recent monthly meeting of St. Joseph's Altar-Rosary Society and welcomed two new members, Anne Bruder and Mary Myer.

Mrs. Kenneth Decker read a letter from Sr. Mary Gerard stating that the vestments purchased for the priests by the Society would arrive in April.

Members were asked to assist the Redemptorist Fathers in preparing clothes and different articles for a Thrift Shop to be run by the Fathers, proceeds of which would be used for self-help projects for people in the area.

Mrs. Walter Dougherty and Mrs. Joseph Ryndak will conduct a bake sale on Sunday, May 6, after all the Masses. Proceeds will be used for the various needs of the parish.

Mrs. Edward Ortleib, Mrs. Joseph Fabbie and Mrs. William Ball were appointed to the nominating committee. New officers are to be elected at the May meeting.

Guest speaker for the April meeting will be Sister Barbara Bennet, assistant principal and guidance counselor of the John A. Coleman High School.

Refreshments were served by Florence Corso and Mrs. Warren Lawrence.

Host Families Needed in Area

Kingston area families are needed to entertain English-speaking European teachers in their homes for one or two weeks this summer. It was announced today by The American Host Program.

According to J. Stuart Perkins, Board Chairman of the Host Program, who is president of Volkswagen of America, American Host is one of the few non-governmental programs designed to show the American way-of-life to foreign teachers by pairing them with American families.

Now in its 11th year, American Host has opened doors to better understanding for more than 3,000 European teachers who have passed on their new understanding of America to their students.

Mr. Perkins said that being a "host family" is open to anyone who has the desire to increase understanding and friendship between Americans and Europeans. All American Host requires, he said, is hospitality — a private room for a guest and free time for one or two weeks to introduce the guest to friends, neighbors and perhaps fellow teachers.

American Host arranges all transportation. Host families are asked to meet their guest upon arrival in their community. Teachers and host families have an opportunity to correspond for at least a month before meeting.

Arrangements for participating as a host family can be made by writing to: Tom Murphy, The American Host Program, Hotel Commodore, Suite 2100, New York, New York 10017.

Deadline for information is March 31.

Now LA Is Doing the Chasing

OAKLAND, Calif. (UPI) — After leading the NBA's Western Conference by a comfortable margin for much of the season, the Los Angeles Lakers find themselves trailing the Milwaukee Bucks going into the last game of the season.

Milwaukee's hard-fought 85-84 win in Los Angeles Tuesday night gave the Bucks a 60-22 mark for the year. The Lakers, now 59-22, must defeat the Warriors here tonight to tie Milwaukee and force a playoff game in Milwaukee on Friday night.

The winner will receive a $10,000 bonus for having the conference's best record, plus the dubious advantage of meeting the Warriors rather than the Chicago Bulls in the first round of the playoffs. Also at stake is a possible home court advantage, if the Lakers and Bucks should meet in the Western Conference finals.

Laker coach Bill Sharman felt his players were standing around against the Bucks and their intimidating center, Kareem Abdul-Jabbar.

"We've got to get more movement," Sharman said. "They're too tough for us defensively for us to just stand around. It's a shame we had to lose like this."

Brewers Release Ferraro

KINGSTON, N.Y. — The Milwaukee Brewers today announced the unconditional release of Mike Ferraro, third baseman during the 1972 season.

Ferraro's name was placed on the waiver list this morning and if he isn't claimed within five days by another team, his major league career for all intents and purposes is over.

Ferraro, contacted by The Freeman sports department, confirmed the release.

"I was notified Tuesday by training camp," said Ferraro, "the front office that I was being released."

Jabbar, who scored 24 points including the game-winning bucket with 1:03 to play, agreed that defense will be the key in any future Laker-Buck showdown.

"It depends on who plays the best defense, because Wilt (Chamberlain) and I offset each other," he said.

Chamberlain did not attempt a field goal or a free throw in the game, which surprised Jabbar.

"I thought Wilt would put the ball up," he said. "He's practically unstoppable when the turns in on you. It all depends on what he wants to do."

Jabbar brought the Bucks to within three points of the Lakers at 84-81 with 2:54 left. A bucket by rookie Chuck Terry and Jabbar's clutch ended the scoring, and the Lakers failed in their last three shot attempts.

"This is a tremendous disappointment," Sharman said, adding that "at least there is a bright side. I'd rather lose than have someone get hurt. Injuries will be the key to the playoffs."

For the Bucks, who have now won 14 straight games, it was "our biggest win of the year," according to Jabbar.

Veteran Oscar Robertson ended with 25 points, while Jim McMillian had 32 for the Lakers. Laker guards Gail Goodrich and Jerry West were each held to 14 points.

In other NBA action Tuesday night, the Boston Celtics defeated the Atlanta Hawks 117-110, the Chicago Bulls ripped the Cleveland Cavaliers 121-105, the Houston Rockets defeated the Buffalo Braves 121-111 and the Detroit Pistons downed the Baltimore Bullets 112-98.

Boston, tied at the half, scored the first 10 points after the intermission and went on to beat the Hawks. John Havlicek led the Celtics with 29 points and Pete Maravich had 30 for Atlanta.

Chet Walker scored 28 points and Bob Love 23 in the Bulls' victory over Cleveland and Dave Bing's 30 points carried Detroit over the Bullets and lifted the Pistons to the .500 level.

Rudy Tomjanovich had 25 points and Otto Moore and Mike Newlin 20 each as the Rockets beat Buffalo. Bob McAdoo had 39 for the Braves.

SCORE? — While Buffalo's goalie Roger Crozier keeps his eyes on the puck, teammate Tracy Pratt (4) bounces into one of the goal posts during game with Islanders Tuesday night. No. 3 is Brian Lefley of New York. Buffalo won, 3-2. (UPI)

Redmond Spoils Fan's Plans

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A man with a sense of history and plenty of confidence in Detroit's Mickey Redmond, showed up at Toronto's Maple Leaf Gardens Tuesday night with a hat marked "50" for the National Hockey League star.

Redmond had 49 goals going into the game and with just over three minutes left to play, he still had 49. Then he deflected a shot past Leaf goalie Ron Low for the magic No. 50 and 18 seconds later, he was back on Low's doorstep for No. 51.

As the Wings left the ice, the fan handed Redmond the hat with the outdated number on the front. "I guess," Redmond laughed later, "the guy just didn't have time to change it."

Redmond's two goals and a pair by Billy Collins helped Detroit to an important 8-1 victory over Toronto. That kept the Red Wings one point back of Buffalo for the fourth and final playoff spot in the East. The Sabres edged the New York Islanders 3-2 and Minnesota topped Vancouver 4-3 in the only other NHL games played.

In the World Hockey Association, Minnesota nipped New York 4-3, Houston rapped New England 6-1, Ottawa took Quebec 6-2 and Los Angeles downed Chicago 4-1.

Redmond became the seventh man in NHL history to reach the 50 plateau. The others were Maurice Richard, Boom Boom Geoffrion, Bobby Hull, Phil Esposito, Johnny Bucyk and Vic Hadfield.

The victory was vital because Buffalo got a pair of goals from Rick Martin to nip the Islanders. It was only the second victory in the last 12 games for the Sabres, who have two games to play compared to three for Detroit.

Martin scored in the first minute of the game and then hit the winner in the final minute of the second period on a power play.

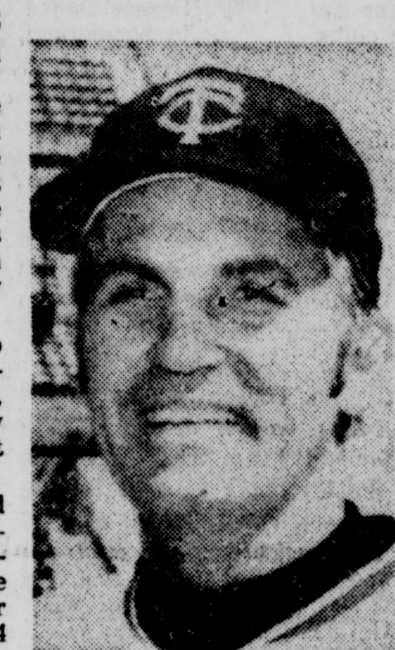

Minnesota took over second place in the West, moving two points ahead of idle Philadelphia by defeating Vancouver.

Tigers Reinforce An Elderly Image

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Detroit Tigers, a team often labeled "too old to win," reinforced their elderly image Tuesday by acquiring veteran pitcher Jim Perry, while the San Francisco Giants' pennant hopes received a boost by the outstanding performances turned in by veterans Juan Marichal and Willie McCovey in exhibition baseball Tuesday.

Minnesota sent Perry, 36, to the Tigers in exchange for minor league pitcher Dan Fife, who was 14-7 with Montgomery of the Southern League last year.

JIM PERRY

Perry, the Cy Young Award winner in 1970 when he compiled a 24-12 record, is the winningest active pitcher in the American League with a career mark of 180-139. The 6-foot-4 left-hander, who'll be entering his 15th major league season, was 13-16 with the third-place Twins last year with a 3.34 earned run average. He earns an estimated $68,000 a year.

Meanwhile, Marichal, the National League's winningest active pitcher with a 227-125 career record, took a giant step on the road to recovery from a season of injuries by hurling seven innings of hitless ball as San Francisco stopped the San Diego Padres on one hit 6-0.

And McCovey, the Giants' slugging first baseman, who missed much of last season with a broken right forearm, belted a two-run home run and added an RBI single to provide the offensive power.

In other exhibition games, Cleveland beat Oakland 6-0, Cincinnati edged Los Angeles 5-4, Montreal topped Houston 6-4, St. Louis nipped Pittsburgh 2-1, Boston trimmed the New York Mets 3-2, the Chicago White Sox beat Atlanta 7-3, Kansas City defeated the New York Yankees 4-2, Milwaukee downed California 8-6, Minnesota beat Baltimore 6-3 and Detroit edged Philadelphia 8-7.

After Marichal's seven innings, Don Carithers and Elias Sosa completed the shut-out. Sosa gave up San Diego's only hit, a bloop single by Jerry Morales in the ninth inning.

Dick Tidrow limited Oakland to three hits over six innings, and relievers Ray Lamb and Rich Hinton finished the shut-out, Cleveland's sixth consecutive exhibition triumph.

Larry Stahl scored the winning run for Cincinnati in the eighth inning on Dave Concepcion's single. Montreal's Mike Jorgensen and Ron Fairly collected three hits apiece against Houston.

Ted Simmons two-run double with two out in the first inning provided the support for St. Louis starter Jim Bibby, who went eight innings and held Pittsburgh to two hits.

Bob Montgomery homered and John Curtis pitched six solid innings for Boston. Ed Herrmann rapped out three hits and Buddy Bradford hit a three-run homer for the White Sox.

Kansas City's Steve Busby held the Yankees to three hits in six innings in the Royals' victory. Joe Lahoud hit a two-run homer as Milwaukee rallied for four runs in the seventh inning to defeat California.

Doubles by Rod Carew and Danny Thompson marked a five-run, eighth-inning rally for Minnesota. Tony Taylor, a former Phillie, had four singles for the Tigers, and the fourth one drove in the winning run in the eighth inning.

A Chance for Arnzen

By United Press International

It's that time of year in the American Basketball Association when guys like Bob Arnzen get a chance to star.

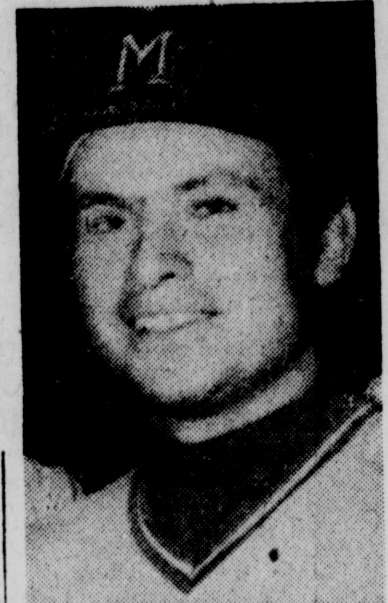

With most playoff-bound clubs saving their front-line performers for the upcoming playoffs, guys like Arnzen, who see little action during the regular season, finally get a chance to perform.

Arnzen scored 24 points Tuesday night, two above his entire season's total, to lead the Indiana Pacers to a 110-107 victory over the San Diego Conquistadors.

The Q's were led by Larry Miller with 26 points. Their No. 1 scorer, Stew Johnson, had 23 points and stretched his string of consecutive three-point goals to seven before missing.

Indiana, which defeated the Q's 10 straight times going into tonight's game, led by only one point with 1:16 left to play. San Diego twice failed to score during the last minute and two free shots by Fred Lewis iced the game for the Pacers.

In the only other ABA games, the Utah Stars raced to a 13-2 point lead early in the second quarter Tuesday night and held off several rallies for a 115-109 victory over the Denver Rockets.

Firestone Opens

AKRON, Ohio (UPI) — Fifty-two champions begin the $125,000 Firestone Tournament of Champions at Riviera Lanes here Wednesday.

Only winners of Professional Bowlers Association tournaments are eligible to compete in the four-day event, which caps the 13-week winter PBA tour. First-place money for the ninth annual event is $25,000.

Mike Durbin, of Chagrin Falls, Ohio, will be defending his title against three new winners—Gary Dickinson, Fort Worth, Tex., and Jay Robinson and Bobby Knipl, both of Los Angeles.

Durbin has competed in only three events this year and has no winnings. In 1972, he won more than $27,000 in eight outings.

Only two two-time winners came out of this year's tour—Don McCune of Munster, Ind., and Dick Ritger of Hartford, Wis.

Only One Change in Chrissie

By MILTON RICHMAN
UPI Sports Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — The last time I saw Chris Evert she was a sweet unspoiled little girl.

She was almost too good to be true.

Chris Evert, only 16, had soft china blue eyes, long blonde hair tied up in a ponytail and an incredibly appealing way about her that was turning even regular racetrack goers into red hot tennis fans overnight.

That was two years ago at Forest Hills. The U.S. Open was going on and everybody was talking about only one of the contestants — little Chris Evert. They carried on about her as if she were the new Joan of Arc.

She lost to Billie Jean King in the semi-finals that year, but the defeat didn't kill any of her lustre.

I saw Chris Evert for the first time since then Tuesday and it's nice to be able to report that same natural unspoiled quality still is there, except for one change.

She's a professional now, and you can see that immediately.

Chris Evert still wears her hair the same way and manifests that same ingenuous simplicity, but there's nothing little girl about her anymore.

She's much more sure of herself, more poised. She's 18 now, and no longer a little girl but a mature both-feet-on-the-ground young lady.

Chris Evert concedes as much.

"I'm starting to get more businesslike," she says. "The biggest difference between playing amateur and professional tennis is a little more pressure. Before I could go out and play and not really care if I lost. Now a lot of things are different. I have to practice for an hour, and last week in Akron I was on my own, alone for the first time without my father or mother."

"You practiced before, too, didn't you?" I said to her.

"Yes, but it's much different now," she said.

Chris Evert is just about finishing her first 90 days as a pro, and with some that's the roughest time.

With her, it wasn't.

She has made three starts since turning pro following her 18th birthday last Dec. 21 and won twice.

Chris made her debut in the $50,000 S. and H. Green Stamp tournament in Fort Lauderdale, Fla., her home-town, and won that one, and last Sunday she beat Mrs. Olga Morozova, the No. 1 ranked woman player in the Soviet Union, at Akron to win there also. In little more than three weeks in fact, she has picked up $18,350, and she's looking to add to that in the

TENNIS ANYONE? — Tennis pros (L-R) Chris Evert of Florida, Linda Tuero of Metairie, La., and Russia's Olga Morozova line up their rackets at Madison Square Garden Tuesday for start of today's $30,000 Lady Gotham Classic. Chris makes her third New York appearance in the first round. (UPI)

$30,000 Lady Gotham Classic, which gets underway tonight in Madison Square Garden's Felt Forum.

"Chris still calls her parents in Fort Lauderdale after each tournament, and on occasion, she'll be on that phone an hour with her boy friend, Miami's Jimmy Connors, leading money winner on the men's U.S.L.T.A. circuit, but when she gets out there on the court, she forgets everything else and suddenly becomes all business."

"She's more consistent than most of us," points out Pati Hogan of La Jolla, Calif., one of the other girls on the U.S.L.T.A. women's prize money circuit.

"She knows exactly what she can do, and doesn't try to do what she can't do. Do I? Yeah, in a tight situation. You try a shot you don't have in the hope it'll go in. Sometimes it does and you look like a hero. Most of the time it doesn't though, and you know what you look like then."

Olga Morozova, Russia's fine looking 24-year-old, is like most Russians. She's on the conservative side, not quick to lavish praise. But you can tell the way she feels about Chris Evert's game.

"She's all right," says Olga. "Quite all right! You understand Russian? 'Ochen horo' sho. That means 'very good.' For example, I like to play money?"

serve and volley; she plays baseline. There is a big said:

There is indeed. As Mike Blanchard, the girls' tour director, says of Chris:

"On the court she's very composed with tremendous powers of concentration. When she's out there playing, she concentrates on the ball like a hawk. She sees nothing else, hears nothing else."

Patti Hogan breaks it down another way.

"If you're very good in what we're doing now, you can make a lotta money," she says. "If you're just pretty good, you can still do fairly well. You ask me, I'll Chris Evert make a lot of Patti Hogan laughed, then said, "She already has."

No 'Gag' on Golfers, Says Chief

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent

NEW YORK (AP) — Joseph C. Dey, Jr., commissioner of the pro golf tour, denied today that black golfers had been ordered to discuss the Masters Tournament.

He insisted there was no gag rule for members of the PGA Tournament Players Division.

"It would be stupid of us to impose such a rule," Dey said from his New York headquarters. "This is a free world and a man may say what he pleases. The only restriction is a code of conduct for all members. They cannot say or do anything that will reflect unfavorably on the game or any of its aspects."

Dey's statement followed published reports from Greensboro, N.C., the current stop on the tour, that such an order had been handed down apparently as the result of the Lee Elder case.

Elder became the center of a controversy last week when 18 Congressmen, headed by Herman Badillo of New York, had sent a wire to Clifford Roberts, tournament director of the Masters, that a special invitation be issued to Elder, a black.

No black player has ever competed in the Masters.

Roberts promptly replied that a black golfer would be accepted as soon as he meets one of the many qualifying standards. To make an exception because a player is black, Roberts said, would be "discrimination in reverse."

Elder, interviewed by The Associated Press at his home in Washington, D.C., after the exchange, charged that Roberts didn't want a black player in the Masters. "He wants to keep it lily white as he's had it since it began," Elder was quoted as saying. Contacted by Dey at New Orleans last week, where he competed, the Negro golfer insisted he was misquoted.

"What I said was that since they've changed their rules, it makes it more difficult for a black to get in," Elder added.

After the New Orleans tournament, in which Elder finished sixth, it was reported that a directive had come down from New York headquarters that blacks were not to discuss the Masters any more.

"That is absolutely untrue," Dey said. "Such an order would have to come from me, and I gave no such order."

However, the commissioner acknowledged that players are bound by a rigid code of ethics and violations of which in the past has resulted in fines and disciplinary action.

"We are an organization of members," Dey explained. "We are bound by rules. One of the rules deals with conduct. It deals with late starting, worthless checks and things like that. But the principal admonition is one that says contestants shall at all times conduct themselves in a manner becoming a professional golfer and which will not reflect unfavorably on the TPD, its members, officers, representatives or tournament sponsors, the public or news media."

Carnesecca Going Back to St. John's

NEW YORK (UPI) — Lou Carnesecca, the vibrant little coach who built his basketball reputation at St. John's in New York announced Tuesday that he will return to the school as head coach after finishing the season with the New York Nets of the American Basketball Association.

Carnesecca was offered the St. John's job after Frank Mulzoff unexpectedly resigned following the Redmen's loss to Pennsylvania in the first round of the CAA playoffs earlier this month. St. John's ranked 17th in the country, finished with a 19-7 record.

Carnesecca, 45, mulled over the alternatives for the past several weeks while trying to get his Nets ready for the ABA playoffs. The Nets, struggling all season long, meet the Eastern Division champion Carolina Cougars in the first round starting Friday.

The volatile little coach, who graduated from St. John's in 1950, had a great run of success as head coach after he succeeded the legendary Joe Lapchick in 1965. He won 104 while losing 35 in his five years and led the Redmen into post season play each time, appearing in three NCAA tournaments and two NITs.

He was a success with the Nets, too, after moving there for the 1970-71 season. The team finished third that year and went into the playoffs. Last season, led by Rick Barry, who has since jumped back to the NBA, Carnesecca again led the Nets into the playoffs and surprised everyone by inspiring his team into the finals against the Indiana Pacers. But Louie's luck ran out and the Nets lost in six games.

"I've had my whack in pro ball and I've been very happy with it," said Carnesecca after the announcement was made. "But I wanted to go back to coaching at St. John's. It's a great challenge for me. That's all I want to say right now."

Sickler's and CWA In HVI Finals

POUGHKEEPSIE — All the chips will be on the table in the Hudson Valley Invitational Basketball Tournament here tonight, but nobody is predicting who'll pick them up when all the shooting is over.

By every standard, Sickler's Delivery of Kingston should beat Community Workers Association (CWA) of Newburgh, but nobody is counting on it.

The Kingston team reads like a Who's Who of present and past Ulster County Community College stars, six of whom have just participated in the most successful UCCF campaign in history (34-5) and a trip to the NJCAA Nationals where they finished fourth in a field of 16 teams.

Add two all-time greats like Jerry Moss and Glenn Berry to a team loaded with Henry Nixon, Coleman Link, Jackie Knowles, Val Williams, Ike Chestnut and Steve Richardson (and Pistol Pete Koola, too) and you'd think it would be unbeatable.

But victories haven't come that easy for the collegians in the current tournament where the opposition is stacked with former high school stars, experienced semi-pros and collegians. Sickler's had to scramble to a 69-64 overtime win over DiStefano's of Poughkeepsie, the defending champions, to stay alive Monday night.

CWA, meanwhile, was polishing off the veteran Felicello Pipers of Marlboro 88-61.

Nixon, Knowles and company go against a couple of highly respected foes in the CWA lineup — Wade Pittman and Larry Frazier, the Rockland County Community College stalwarts who almost scared them to death in the recent Region XV action.

The two Powell brothers — Jim and Gay — Jim McLaurin, Williams and Jarves round out the CWA lineup. It's a formidable roster with good shooters, speed and board strength.

"We just haven't played up to our potential," says Coach Rich Amato of Sickler's, stealing a page from athletic coaches down through the ages.

"We should have beaten Felicello Pipers by 15 or 20 points," said the once-a-year mentor. "I think we'll put it all together tonight, when the UCCF boys see Pittman and Frazier on the other side of the court that's all the incentive they'll need."

The fact Sickler's didn't beat Felicello's 15 points leaves a gnawing doubt that they can easily turn back CWA. It could be a toughie all the way.

Norton Thinks Hypnotism Improves His Confidence

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — Heavyweight boxer Ken Norton said he "doesn't even know how to spell the word lose" since he has been undergoing hypnotism.

The 28-year-old fighter is training for a 12-round bout with Muhammad Ali for the North American Boxing Federation title Saturday.

He said his mental outlook and his self-confidence have improved since he began working with hypnotist Dr. Frank Dean.

Both Ali and Norton have been working out at the LeBaron Hotel and Tuesday a crowd of 700 people were entertained as Ali answered questions and read his poetry between sparring bouts.

Ali said he too had been using a hypnotist, Jimmy Grippo from Miami. When Ali spotted Dean in the audience he told him Grippo could "put a whammy on you all the way from Miami."

Ali sparred with Alonzo Johnson and Tony Doyle for four rounds.

Norton later sparred with Eddie Jones, one of the top light heavyweight fighters, and Pete Williams, who is a sparring partner for Joe Frazier and imitates Ali's style.

Onteora Girls Sweep

KINGSTON — Onteora High School's girls varsity volleyball squad swept Rondout and Coleman by 2-0 scores in a UCAI triangular match on the Coleman courts.

The wins upped the Onteora overall record to 7 and 3, with a 5-3 rating in the UCAI. Rondout defeated Coleman 2-1. Onteora topped Rondout 15-7, 15-12, as Darlene Dunn led with 11 points. Debbie Dunn, Anita Shultis and Karen Baldus each scored four points for C.S. Karen Baldus had seven points against Coleman and served up eight. Karen Frangello and Debbie Dunn added four points each.

RVLL Registration Set

ROSENDALE — Registration for the Rondout Valley Little League has been scheduled for Friday, March 30, 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. at the High Falls Reformed Church and Saturday, March 31, from noon to 4 p.m. at the Town Clerk's office in Rosendale.

Boys must be accompanied by a parent and furnish proof of age. Boys who will be 8 years old before Aug. 1 and will not be 13 years old before Aug. 1, 1973, are eligible. They must reside in either of the Towns of Rosendale or Marbletown. There is no registration fee.

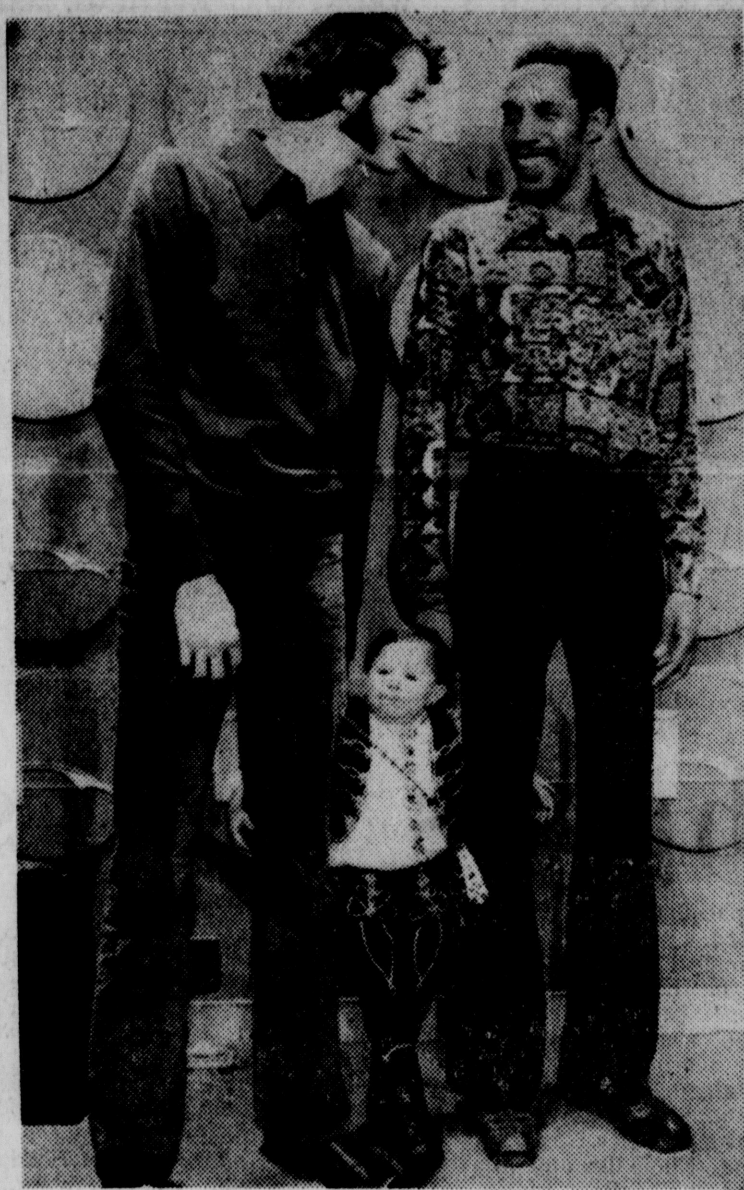

A board of directors meeting will be held Sunday, April 1, at 7:30 p.m. at the Town Clerk's office in Rosendale. Volunteers are needed for manager and coaching positions. Interested citizens of Marbletown and Rosendale are urged to attend.

Donkey Cagers at RVC

KYSERIKE — A team of intrepid Rondout Valley Central faculty members plays an area all-star team in a donkey basketball game Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in the high school gym.

Basketball talent is only one of the assets needed for donkey basketball. Rodeo skills are a definite plus, if you have them.

Tickets are available in advance at both the Rondout Valley High School and Rondout Valley Middle School offices at reduced prices.

TALL AND SHORT of it, as John Gianelli (L) and Hawthorne Wingo (R) basketball players with the New York Knicks carry on a conversation at Kennedy Airport seemingly unimpressed by Mihaly Mezaros, a circus performer billed as the smallest man in the world. Mezaros, a Hungarian, is 33 years old, 33 inches tall and is with the Ringling Brothers and Barnum and Bailey circus. Gianelli is 6-10, Wingo 6-8. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

Redeemers Take Church Loop Title

KINGSTON — Ted Wonderly and Bob Mazzuca led with 12 points each, as Redeemer Lutheran routed Comforter 39-16 for the YMCA Junior Church Basketball League championship. Comforter gained the finals by routing St. James 47-12.

In another game, St. John's overpowered St. George's 37-9. The Redeemer defense limited Comforter to just three points in the first half. Hotaling led the losers with nine points.

La Countour led Comforter with 20 points and Hotaling added 17.

St. John's (37) — Jones, Pugliese, Mine 8, Benton, McCreery 2, Short, Brown 23, Bigando 4.

St. George's (9) — J. Demosthenous 5, Kogkoctos, Pappas, Lenns, Sowa, Mathews, Hoffer 2, Drakos 2, H. Papadoulous, Yankoglu 2.

Buchanan Beats Matta in London

LONDON (UPI) — Former world lightweight champion Ken Buchanan, 136½, of Scotland scored an easy, but not impressive, 10 round decision over New York-based Puerto Rican Hector Matia, 137½, tonight.

Shortly before the start of the bout at the Royal Albert Hall the Scot was served with a writ by lawyers representing his former manager Eddie Thomas.

It forms a claim for "debts" of about $10,000 dating back to Buchanan's world title defense against Ismael Laguna of Panama in 1971.

Referee Harry Gibbs scored the contest 50 points to 48½ which means Buchanan won six rounds with four even.

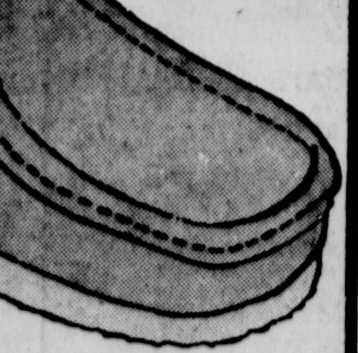

Dennis Juechter of Milwaukee scored a 681 to tie James Moser of Erie, Pa., for sixth. Randy Maddox of Oklahoma City, Okla., rolled a 673 three-game set to tie Don Chapman of Scranton, Pa., for ninth.

Maddox took eighth place in the all-events class with an 1,892 total for nine games.

Guild Selects Perry For Page One Award

KINGSTON — Mike Perry, Ulster County Community College's fabulously successful basketball coach and athletic director, has been named winner of the 1973 Kingston Newspaper Guild's Page One Award in Sports.

Perry will be honored along with winners in various other fields at the Guild's annual Page One Ball on Saturday, May 19, at the Holiday Inn, Guild president Charles J. Tiano announced.

A graduate of Siena College in Loudonville where he learned his basketball under the late Dan Cunha, Perry has compiled one of the highest winning records in National Junior College Athletic Association (NJCAA) history. At the end of the 1972-73 season, Perry's UCCF basketball teams had won 179 games and lost only 47 for a .792 percentage exceeded by only four other coaches in the history of the NJCAA.

Perry's 1972-73 team, considered by experts his greatest ever, won 34 and lost 5, repeated as Region XV champions and placed fourth in a field of 16 teams in the NJCAA Nationals at Hutchinson, Kansas this month.

The Senators completed their current campaign with a string of 25 straight wins in the Mid-Hudson Conference and 33 straight wins at home, both all-time UCCF records.

Since he took over as Ulster coach eight years ago, Perry's teams have captured five of seven championships in the seven-year history of the Mid-Hudson Conference.

Perry a master of the defense technique on the court, has been Region XV Coach of the Year for the past two seasons. An able recruiter, he has been able to attract some of the best metropolitan high school talent to the bucolic Stone Ridge campus of UCCF.

A once-volatile mentor Coach Perry has mellowed in recent years but never lost the winning touch. His teams are carefully assembled units that have as their hallmarks — speed, defense, balance and discipline.

In his 8th year at Ulster, he has earned well deserved recognition as one of the nation's finest junior college coaches.

Perry has developed many individual stars among them the peerless Jumpin' Joe Uhl, Jerry Moss, Glen Berry and this season's brilliant trio of Jackie Knowles, Henry Nixon and Coleman Link. Knowles was the first UCCF player to achieve NJCAA All-American rating, being named to the third team this season.

The UCCF athletic director has also achieved great success with his golf teams and two of his players — Joe Bostic and Tom Monticello — competed in the NJCAA Nationals in Florida last spring.

Perry joins a distinguished group of area and national sports figures who were previous Page One winners in sports, including Harry Markson, Addison Jones, Andrew J. Murphy, Fred J. Davi, Hopper had 164.

Your Horoscope

Thursday, March 29

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A wonderful day and evening for you get together with others, not only to carry through with the resolutions and promises made yesterday, but also to plan for the future concerning career and government.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You can accomplish much today of a personal or social nature through the good auspices of friends, so seek them out early. Make as many new contacts as possible and let them fit into your scheme of things.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Bringing your finest abilities to affairs more wisely. You can make a big hit with attachment because of your fine ideas now; listen to it carefully.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) If you listen to views of associates, you can now reach a fine understanding, but be more broad-minded. Reconcile with one who opposes you since this person is more friendly now.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Get the new gadgets that will help make your work easier and more smooth running. Find the new items of clothing that will improve your wardrobe. Make an excellent impression on others.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) If you adopt a new attitude now you can relate to others much better, whether in business or personal life. Some scientific study in p.m. would be fine.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) A new approach to problems at home can solve them ideally. restoring harmony. Put that project to work in the business world that can bring you more success and happiness, too. Avoid one who is unfriendly.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You have some fascinating new ideas to discuss with good friends and can get the right results, cooperation. Keep appointments with bigwigs or experts you need, also. Do not be late for such.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You want to add to present income and can do so now provided you do not scatter your forces and thus achieve very little. A clever financial expert can give fine advice. Listen to it carefully.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Look to good friends as well as own ability for assistance to gain your finest personal aims. Show you will do any work required in order to progress in your career. Get at important correspondence in p.m.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You want to reorganize your operations so that greater success can be yours, but first must trust this with a good and trusted advisor. Dress charmingly and go out socially in p.m. Speak quietly.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one of those charming young people whose mind literally roams the universe, so be sure to bring out the wonderful talents and qualities, then your offspring can make the most of such during the lifetime. Permit to have many playmates so the social side of life can be successful in the future, also. Any of the humanitarian professions would be excellent here, especially.

"The stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU! Carroll Righter's Individual Forecast for your sign, for April is now ready. Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

KISS? (Q.) I want to kiss Linda. She comes over with her parents and sister. Her parents and mine are great friends. But I am afraid if I kiss her, her sister will see us and tell, and then we would be in trouble.

Should I kiss her anyway?—Honda Kid in New Mexico.

(A.) I do not know how old Linda is, and I do not know how old you are. You may be old enough to ride a motorcycle. Or you may just have motorcycles—and Linda—on your mind.

Instead of trying a shortcut, why don't you go the longer, honest way with Linda? Call her on the telephone. Visit her at home. Take her to parties. Be her boy friend, instead of just a boy who wants to kiss her.

Somewhere along the line, in the regular way, you will get opportunities to kiss her without being condemned for it.

COMPETITOR? (Q.) I met this guy when he was down here visiting. We wrote to each other.

I found out another girl he met while he was here wrote him. How do I find out if he's writing her? I am afraid if I ask him it will make him mad.—Going Down for the Last Time in Louisiana.

(A.) Take it easy. Unless there is much more to it than you tell me, your friend is completely free to write another girl if he chooses to.

Do not ask him about her. Do not ask anyone else about her. Whether they write each other is their business, not yours.

Here is another lucky IMP hand. At both tables the bidding went the same up to North's second bid. At one table North drew trumps and make every elected to try one of those all-purpose diamond cue bids and spades. It didn't really matter eventually South played at four clubs.

At the other table North decided to bid a fancy two hearts. After that start there was no way to keep South from raising to four hearts and North had to take his partner to the club game.

The contract was lucky to bring in but it also required some good play by South. East won the first trick with the ace of diamonds and returned the suit. South won with the king and promptly led his 10 of clubs.

West played low and the moment of truth had arrived. It seemed evident to South that East had to be short in clubs for his takeout double of one spade. If dummy had held the eight of clubs, South could have afforded to go up with dummy's queen; return to his hand with the king and take a proved finesse against the jack. But North did not hold that important eight-spot so South proceeded to take a first round finesse.

After that fine start it was a simple matter for South to draw trumps and make every trick except for the ace of purpose diamond cue bids and spades. It didn't really matter what line he took. The hearts and spades were both placed nicely for him.

We must have room for our prayers to go through to the east. Move those cameras away. Keep the line clear for our prayers to our Indian gods.

The contract was lucky to bring in but it also required some good play by South. East won the first trick with the ace of diamonds and returned the suit. South won with the king and promptly led his 10 of clubs.

West played low and the moment of truth had arrived. It seemed evident to South that East had to be short in clubs for his takeout double of one spade. If dummy had held the eight of clubs, South could have afforded to go up with dummy's queen; return to his hand with the king and take a proved finesse against the jack. But North did not hold that important eight-spot so South proceeded to take a first round finesse.

After that fine start it was a simple matter for South to draw trumps and make every trick except for the ace of purpose diamond cue bids and spades. It didn't really matter what line he took. The hearts and spades were both placed nicely for him.

Walton Gives Super TV Show

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — gift of transmitting emotion and excitement to fans. Walton is not merely awesome, he is a genuine, boxoffice attraction because, in an age of cool, his emotions—exuberant but never offensive or threatening—are as present as his skills.

He is, in short, fun to watch, as opposed to some of the talented but surly and arrogant high-priced names who are more and more prevalent in sports these days.

His performance, Monday night, in leading UCLA to its seventh consecutive NCAA title and, ninth in 10 years, was nothing less than breathtaking. His quickness as a big man, his agility, his variety of shots, his passing, his enthusiasm, were something else. Memphis State has an outstanding front line of three big men, and yet Walton virtually negated them by himself.

There was one, young man from Memphis State, however, whom no one could negate. His name is Larry Finch and he scored 29 points in a brilliant performance, but more than that, one also sensed in him a special kind of sportsmanship and class. It is a pleasure to watch such an athlete at a time when crassness in sports is so widespread.

The Most Unsung

Perhaps the most unsung hero in Monday night's game was UCLA guard Greg Lee, who not only performed notably as his team's playmaker, but was pretty amazing himself in getting a variety of spectacular

McCord Agrees to Closed-Door Interview

WASHINGTON (AP) — Convicted Watergate conspirator James W. McCord Jr. agreed today at a closed-door interview with a special Senate investigation committee.

The interview, arranged by the committee late Tuesday, is preliminary to later public hearings on the bugging of Democratic headquarters in the Watergate complex here and other alleged political espionage and sabotage in last year's presidential campaign.

E. Howard Hunt Jr., another of those awaiting sentencing for the Watergate break-in and bugging, was to return again before a federal grand jury today.

Hunt, one of five who pleaded guilty at the start of the Watergate trial last January, spent more than an hour before the grand jury Tuesday. His return indicated he was answering questions, unlike G. Gordon Liddy, another convicted defendant, who refused Monday to answer questions on grounds of possible self-incrimination.

Meanwhile, two key Republican senators urged President Nixon to let White House Counsel John W. Dean III testify before the Watergate panel.

"It's in the best interest of the White House that the whole thing be bared and cleaned up," Sen. John Tower of Texas, chairman of the Senate GOP Policy Committee, told newsmen.

And Sen. Norris Cotton of New Hampshire, head of the Senate Republican Conference, said experience has taught him that it is bad policy to prolong and drag out "some kind of mystery or scandal."

Published reports say McCord told lawyers for the Watergate committee that Dean and former White House aide Jeb Stuart Magruder had prior knowledge of the Watergate wiretapping. The White House and Magruder issued statements of denial.

Nixon has adopted a policy of refusing to allow aides to testify before Congress, citing executive privilege.

Deputy White House Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren said Tuesday that a request by two House members to have Dean testify in connection with hearings on executive privilege is being studied. Reps. William S. Moorhead, D-Pa., and John N. Erlenborn, R-Ill., promised that Dean would not be questioned about the Watergate or on anything that would infringe on his confidential relationship with Nixon.

Five persons have pleaded guilty and two—Liddy and McCord—have been found guilty of conspiracy and wiretapping in connection with the break-in. Liddy was sentenced to up to 20 years in prison, but Judge John J. Sirica delayed final sentencing of the others while urging them to cooperate in the continuing investigations.

Red Forces Near Phnom Penh

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — Communist forces pushed to within 15 miles of Phnom Penh in fighting along Highway 1 today despite the 21st consecutive day of bombing raids by U.S. B52 bombers and other warplanes.

(In Washington, the White House said U.S. bombing would continue as long as Communists press their offensive in Cambodia, the only country in Southeast Asia with no formal cease-fire.)

Cambodian military spokesman Col. Am Rong said Communists now occupy a 17-mile stretch of Highway 1, running from the strategic Mekong River navy base at Neak Luong to the plywood factory town of Dei Eth, 15 miles southeast of Phnom Penh.

(In Honolulu, the U.S. Pacific Forces Command said B52s and lighter bombers hit Communist positions along Highways 1 and 1 at Neak Luong and elsewhere. The raids, it said, were carried out at the request of Cambodian authorities, but it gave no details of them.)

Military sources in Phnom Penh said the raids were the heaviest of the war in Cambodia and the closest to the capital itself.

The United States, the sources said, were reluctant at first to bomb along Highway 1 because of the heavy population here, but relented later and made the area a priority target.

During the past two months, military sources said, Communist strategy has concentrated on cutting major supply routes into the capital and lately has grown to include a possible attack on Phnom Penh itself.

The situation, the sources said, appeared most critical around Neak Luong, 32 miles southeast of the capital. Communist units there are now within one mile of Neak Luong. River convoys bearing supplies of food, war supplies and petroleum up the Mekong to the Cambodian capital have been halted just inside the Vietnamese border waiting for an all-clear signal. Communist gunners have ambushed two convoys, sinking two U.S. ammunition barges and badly damaging several cargo ships in Cambodia from the riverbanks. Cambodian authorities also reported fierce fighting on Highway 4, where the Communists cut the road Monday at a point 49 miles southwest of Phnom Penh.

Showdown Vote Set On Vocational Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The crucial vote is likely in the House next week on a $2.6-billion vocational - rehabilitation bill, vetoed by President Nixon to force the year's first showdown on spending with the Democratic-controlled Congress.

The Senate is expected to muster the needed two-thirds vote to override Nixon's veto when it takes up the measure next Tuesday. The House outlook is considered uncertain.

Though both House and Senate passed the bill by lopsided margins, a House move backed by the Nixon administration to reduce it was beaten on a relatively close 213-165 vote.

The measure, a three-year extension of the program that provides grants to the states for the physically and mentally handicapped, was the first of 12 bills vetoed by Nixon last year, after Congress adjourned, to meet the same fate after repassage this year.

This year's bill is $800 million smaller than the one vetoed last year. An authorization measure, it sets the ceiling for the program with actual funds to be provided in a later appropriations bill.

In his veto message Tuesday, Nixon declared that enactment of measures that surpass his budget could lead to a 15-percent increase in personal income taxes.

"If we allow the big spenders to sweep aside budgetary restraints," Nixon said, "we can expect an increase of more than $50 billion in federal spending before the end of fiscal year 1975."

Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., chief Senate sponsor, replied that "the President clearly hasn't read this bill and doesn't know what's in it."

He said the vocational-rehabilitation programs "have proven to be among the most cost-effective of any in the federal government" and added that this year's bill "has met the President more than half way" by cutting $881 million from the 1972 measure.

Even if Nixon's veto is overridden, the President may impound funds appropriated under the program as he has in other areas when Congress has rejected his requests to make reductions.
